Welfare... In Like Lion Out as Lamb

By PETER BRUTON
(Third in a Series)

Controversy over charges of a breakdown in B.C. social welfare services during the recent session of the legislature literally roared in like a lion and went out as a lamb.

Main reason for the falloff was undoubtedly the fact that the estimates of Welfare Minister Wesley D. Black — the only time when a detailed discussion could arise—were not called until the early morning hours of the fourth consecutive day of punishing all-night sittings.

By that time much of the steam had been taken out of the opposition.

The welfare controversy flared into prominence shortly before Christmas when Miss Ruby McKay, B.C. superintendent of child welfare for the past 16 years, quit her post in protest over what she termed "restrictive" policies of the government.

When Miss McKay's name did pop up during the estimates Mr. Black merely said: "I have no remarks to make."

The opposition obligingly dropped the ball.

What was the situation regarding welfare services?

Miss McKay said bluntly that more money and more staff were needed to do a proper job. She asked all B.C. residents to protest a situation she said was "critical" and hundreds of social workers and agencies backed her up.

Massive Workload

Miss McKay said the workload was overwhelming, that more facilities were urgently required for retarded children and that adoption procedures should be speeded up.

"It was impossible to cope with the mounting number of families and children who needed help," said Miss McKay.

"I submitted my formal resignation in June, 1960, giving the customary six months' notice to enable the government to plan for the necessary replacements. I have reached my decision to leave for one reason—and one reason only. It was no longer possible in the face of the government's restrictive policies to fulfill the responsibilities of superintendent of child welfare, as I saw them, toward some 5,000 children yearly whose own parents cannot care for them."

A staff twice the size would not be enough, said Miss McKay.

"My many written reports of these critical situations and my recommendations have failed to bring about the necessary changes in policy and I therefore reached the decision to resign," she said.

The annual report of the social welfare branch, tabled on the opening day of the session, showed what the situation was at March 31, 1960.

One social worker out of every four quit his job with the department during the year, the report showed. Welfare Minister Black promptly listed the reasons for the mass exodus to show that many of the employees had left for natural causes.

Figures Disclosed

But these figures came to light:

In 1952 there were 221 social workers on staff. In 1960 there were 215. (The government stated that some had been transferred to other departments.)

In 1952 the total welfare caseload was 56,333. Last year it was 72,141.

In 1952, 155 social workers had university training while 66 did not. In 1960 78 had university training and 137 did not.

In 1952 the average caseload per worker (including supervisors and departmental officials) was 254. In 1960 it was 335.

"The shame of it is that the government has not even seen fit to talk about the problem," said the main opposition welfare critic, David Barrett (CCF—Dewdney). Mr. Barrett has his master's degree in social work and was fired from his position at Haney Correctional Institution after he was nominated by the CCF. "It's not Social Credit's exclusive problem. It exists across North America. But the shame of it is the government is not doing anything about it."

Welfare Minister Black had stated all along that he could not comment until he had spoken in the budget debate.

Meanwhile the questions began pouring in.

Of the 93 questions to ministers on opening day 36 dealt with social welfare problems. The majority were filed by Mr. Barrett.

Reorganization Asked

Opposition leader Strachan called for complete reorganization of the welfare services including the appointment of a new government department of social welfare and rehabilitation with its own minister.

But Welfare Minister Black, who spoke Feb. 14, ignored most of the charges.

Instead he turned on CCF leader Strachan and accused him of interfering with the department's business in issuing a bulletin showing what benefits were available to those on social welfare.

The bulletin, widely distributed by the CCF, led to appeals against departmental decisions with the result that the department was forced to pay out more money to those on assistance.

Mr. Black did not take kindly to the criticisms of his department.

"Anyone would think I give kids old razor blades to play with," said an angry Mr. Black.

But he admitted there had been a "slowdown" in some of the government's preventive services because of the rising demands of unemployment on the economy.

B.C.'s welfare program was second to none in Canada and the government would continue to meet the needs of those who seek it — always bearing in mind that it was the taxpayer who must meet the cost of all government services.

Exhausting Session

But the big debate on welfare services was expected to come during the vote on Mr. Black's departmental estimates. The long series of exhausting night sessions took their toll on members well before the estimates came up and the vote passed in a relatively short 3½ hours.

From 12 midnight to 3.30 a.m.

The major statement by Mr. Black was a point-blank refusal to have any type of inquiry into welfare services.

When the discussion got around to the child welfare department—the department formerly headed by Miss McKay—the vote passed without comment.

There should be a separate welfare department with a separate minister, he said. There should be better salaries, skilled workers should be moved over to more preventive work and less-skilled workers could be shifted over to handling easier caseloads, there should be a reappraisal of social assistance payments to make them less a sop to the lazy, and there was a need for regional care for emotionally disturbed children.

Mr. Barrett also called for full medical care for all social assistance and pension cases, more and better research, and licensing of social workers to create a standard such as that of the teaching profession.

Commented Mr. Black in reply: "I'm not too convinced there isn't more than a sprinkling of politics in this whole plan."

Flood-Scared City Breathes Easier As News Improves

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—Cedar Rapids residents, bracing themselves for a Cedar River flood tide which had left an estimated $60,000,000 in property damage at Waterloo, breathed a little easier Thursday on learning that the flood crest due here won't be as high as previously forecast.

The U.S. Geological Survey, in a new forecast, predicted that a crest of 20 feet or less—a foot under its previous estimate—would hit this city.

SIX INCHES AN HOUR

The swollen river's rate of rise had diminished to two-tenths of a foot an hour Thursday afternoon after climbing six inches an hour earlier. The river was above the 15-foot mark, two feet over flood stage.

Veteran observers noted that the city's levee system, constructed since a record flood of 20.01 feet in 1929, had withstood 19-foot crests in past years.

EMERGENCY

However, city council declared a state of emergency Thursday afternoon. It closed the six bridges which link the east and west sides of this industrial city divided by the Cedar, and ordered all off-duty policemen and firemen back to work.

W. W. Stolba, streets commissioner, said weak spots have developed in the dikes which never showed up before. Flood water was seeping into low areas.

He said some 1,300 houses in low-lying areas were in danger of being flooded. All residents of these areas, estimated at 4,000, were urged to move out before nightfall.

Mid-East Boils On Three Fronts

LONDON (AP)—Reports of unrest and struggles for power in the explosive Middle East reached the British government Thursday from three Arab nations—Iraq, Jordan and Yemen.

Police loyal to Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq clashed with striking taximen and sympathizers protesting the rise in gasoline prices in Baghdad Wednesday. At least seven demonstrators were killed and many more wounded.

In Jordan this week a long-simmering army intrigue boiled over in an attempt by five army officers to oust King Hussein's chief of staff, Gen. Hajja Majali.

In Yemen, Imam Ahmed, the iron-fisted ruler, was wounded Monday when an army captain suddenly began blazing at him and his party with a pistol at the Red Sea port of Al Hudaydah.

The assassin turned his gun on himself and fell dead.

Five Hurt As Car Hits Tree

Five persons were injured late last night when a car careened out of control on Admirals Road and plowed into a tree near the corner of Colville.

Taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by navy ambulance were driver Ernest Perry, 2923 Qu'Appelle, treated for shock; his wife, Doris, badly cut face; Bert Underwood, 1118 Yates, head cuts; wife Elizabeth, head cuts, and Hazel Underwood, same address, cut nose.

Police said the front end of the car was demolished.

U.S. Pledges Cash To Rescue UN From Bankruptcy

Britain Pays Share

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States pledged Thursday to save the United Nations from financial collapse by making an extra contribution to the costs of the UN Congo force.

Britain, meanwhile, paid its entire $3,800,000 assessment for 1960 and warned defaulters that unless they meet their obligations the world organization may "very soon be finished in every sense."

MAIN BURDEN

The U.S. and Britain both criticized a suggestion by 19 Latin American countries that they make only "symbolic" payments for the Congo and leave the main burden to the great powers and those countries more directly concerned, presumably the African countries.

These developments came in the 15th assembly's 99-member budgetary committee where Russia—the nine-nation Soviet bloc has refused to pay anything — charged angrily that the U.S. is a selfish country trying to dictate terms for payment of UN obligations.

CONGO COSTS

The Canadian Parliament has already approved an appropriation of nearly $3,500,000 for various Congo costs.

Many countries have defaulted on last year's Congo force costs of less than $50,000,000 and the committee now is studying the 1961 budget, estimated at $120,000,000, considerably more than the UN's regular budget. The U.S. kicked in nearly half of last year's costs.

Reaction To IWA Negative

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Reaction was negative Thursday to a pledge by the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) to stage a comeback in Newfoundland.

H. Landon Ladd, chief of the IWA's eastern Canadian division, said in Vancouver his union will return to Newfoundland after three years "without a chip on the shoulder" for an out-and-out fight with the Newfoundland Brotherhood of Woods Workers, (Ind.), for recognition.

NEW LAWS

He was commenting particularly on the provincial government's decision last week to register an IWA local at Deer Lake under new labor laws approved by the Newfoundland legislature last July.

The NBWW, headed by Stirling Thomas, replaced two IWA locals, decertified by emergency legislation passed at the height of the 1959 woods strike.

NOT REPORTED

What Mr. Ladd was not reported as saying, and what Newfoundland Labor Minister Charles Ballam re-asserted Thursday, was that the Deer Lake local must be certified by the labor relations board before it can go into business in the province.

BIG DIFFERENCE

"There's a big difference between being registered and being certified," said Mr. Ballam. "I want to make that quite clear." Only a certified union can act as bargaining agent for a group of workers. Unions under the new legislation can appeal to the courts if refused certification.

Monarchy Buzzes In Spain

MADRID (Reuters) — Government and intellectual circles last night buzzed with speculation over a future Spanish monarchy.

The furor was caused by the circulation of a manifesto by monarchist groups outlining a plan for the transfer of power from head-of-state Francisco Franco to the pretender to the throne, Don Juan.

The manifesto was unsigned — apparently indicating the monarchists desire not to complicate the cordial relations reported to exist at present between Franco and the 47-year-old pretender.

Storm-Bound Islands Facing Food Shortage

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (CP)—While storm-staggered Prince Edward Island struggled back to normal Thursday, the exposed Magdalen Islands 100 miles to the north faced a food shortage.

Both P.E.I. and the Magdalens bore the brunt of a savage storm earlier this week. Many parts of Prince Edward Island, declared in a state of emergency Wednesday, still were buried under drifts as high as telephone poles.

12,000 RESIDENTS

But 12,000 inhabitants of the Magdalens, reachable at this time of year only by plane, were reported facing a food crisis within 24 hours unless the islands' single aircraft runway can be cleared.

A snowplow attempting to reach the runway had broken down and needed new parts. A helicopter tried to reach the island yesterday with the parts but was unable to land because of low visibility.

Meanwhile Prince Edward Islanders were beginning to move about — mostly by horse and sleigh. More than 120 plows, working 24 hours a day since Tuesday, have cleared some main roads but are making little headway against mountainous drifts on others. Secondary roads are expected to be plugged for two weeks.

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) —The navy was asked late Thursday to use helicopters to airlift passengers stranded for a week aboard the ferry William Carson, stuck in ice off Cape Breton Island.

'Transfusion' Sparks Army Step

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—New and rich blood—in the form of modern equipment—is being injected into the Canadian army.

There's no doubt the army's step is springier as the government moves to meet the primary battlefield requirements: more mobility, more firepower.

Another step toward increased mobility was announced yesterday by the Defence Production Department—acquisition of 19 light observation helicopters for armored corps reconnaissance.

Last month Defence Minister Harkness announced that the army will get a new overland, overwater armored personnel carrier.

In the latter half of this year the army will take delivery of the Honest John artillery rocket. At the same time heavier guns are being installed in the army's tanks, which are also being supplied with a new navigation aid.

Meanwhile, the RCAF is putting into service new heavy transport planes which will enable it to move an army brigade to any spot in the world in a few days.

The defence production department announced that contracts have been placed for 26 helicopters in all. The army will get 19 light observation machines and the RCAF five for training. The RCAF will also get two heavy helicopters for search and rescue and general utility. Total cost will be $3,000,000.

As far as the army is concerned, this order for 19 goes only part way toward meeting its requirements. It would like another 20 for reconnaissance as well as about 40 heavy helicopters for battlefield transportation and supply. Cost would run to about $40,000,000.

The army also wants new devices now becoming available—infrared detection, radar, surveillance drones, airborne photography, ground-to-air missiles.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A NUMBER of people are angry with the B.C. Telephone Company.

That's nothing new, of course. There always are people angry with the B.C. Telephone Company. It is a particularly unlovable corporation.

The angry people I have in mind are Langford residents, who have been informed that whether they like it or not, they will have to pay another 60 cents a month for two-party lines.

Until now, a number of Langford denizens have been on multi-party lines. Admittedly, this can often be a nuisance, if you have garrulous neighbors who like to gossip on the telephone.

Apparently, however, they were willing to put up with their long-winded neighbors for the sake of the lower rate.

Then the company notified them that there was going to be a change.

"I didn't like the brusque tone in which they informed me," said one resident.

"I can afford 60 cents more, but it's the principle of the thing that irks me," said another. "The little man is always being pushed around by these big outfits. What comeback does he have?"

"You'd have to be a lawyer to answer that one, because the utility companies have spun themselves such a complex protective web," I said. "The only thing I can suggest is to ask the Board of Transport Commissioners."

That's what some of these people are going to do.

"They have the litter problem licked in Los Angeles," says an item in a service-club bulletin, sent to me by Major H. Cuthbert Holmes.

"Nobody throws cigaret packages, old kleenex, gum-wrappers, or whatever, on the streets . . .

"There is a law—strictly enforced—which imposes a maximum three-day sentence without the option of a fine—in a street work gang, in a white suit with a stick with a nail at the end, and a trash-bag slung over the right shoulder, for offenders. And they don't fool around with it, either."

The same kind of penalty should be enforced against litter-louts here.

There is something intensely annoying in the sight of people preserving a clean car by throwing everything out of the window.

A week in the labor gang would be a fitting penalty.

This may sound like an eccentric idea—until your own child steps on a jagged chunk of glass at the beach, and cuts his foot open. It makes sense then. If Los Angeles can do it, so can we.

Soviet Plan Expected

MOSCOW (AP)—A well-informed source said Thursday night Britain's proposal for an immediate cease-fire in Laos is unacceptable to the Soviet Union, but that the Russians will soon come up with their own formula for halting the civil war in the Indochinese kingdom.

There is some expectation that the Kremlin may propose revival of the Canadian-Indian-Polish control commission established by the 1954 Geneva conference to supervise the cease-fire which ended the Indochinese war.

The Russians were reported insistent upon the idea that a new 14-nation international conference be convened before the contending sides in the Southeast Asia kingdom lay down their arms. One source said the Russians would ask India to reactivate the control commission and then propose the 14-nation conference.

There is a possibility the Russians will reply to Britain's proposal as soon as they have more information on what went on in the conference of U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi, and at a talk between British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and deposed Laotian premier Souvanna Phouma in London.

Britain's Laos proposal sought an immediate cease-fire to be supervised by the reconstituted 1954 control commission. While this, in its present form, might be unacceptable to the Russians, it was noted the Russians seemed pleased by President Kennedy's declaration last week that he sought an independent and neutral Laos.

At the time, some neutral observers said the Russians might be annoyed by the communique issued by the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization conference in Bangkok because it omitted the word "neutral."

One sources said it was unlikely the Russians would try to persuade the Communist-led Pathet Lao rebels to lay down their arms before making sure the arms would not fall into pro-Western hands.

On and On and On

Truce Wrangling Will Replace War

WASHINGTON (CP)—Qualified United States sources said Thursday that if a cease-fire comes to Laos, conference-table wrangling over the strife-torn Indochinese country may drag on between East and West for a long time.

They said they see no fast, simple solution.

As to the question of a cease-fire, the U.S. doesn't care what the Russians call it as long as they agree to a freeze of the military situation—under international supervision—while a 14-country conference is convened to decide the future of Laos.

The U.S. would like to see Laos turned into an effective buffer zone in Southeast Asia, with both Russia and the U.S. pulling out their military technicians and other advisory groups.

While the fighting in Laos has died down over the last few days, reports reaching Washington are that the Soviet air-lift is still continuing.

The U.S. feels that Red China and not Russia is the real culprit in the Laotian crisis.

The American view is that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has a tough job on his hands attempting to persuade the Red Chinese to agree to a peaceful settlement on Laos.

A conference on Laos might also bring in discussion the whole future of Southeast Asia.

Your Good Health

Husband Being Ostrich About Medical Treatment

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you please write something to persuade my husband that he seriously needs medical attention? A year ago he had a complete medical examination and his doctor found he had polyps of the colon. The doctor gave him temporary medication to control the bleeding and made some tests to be sent away for laboratory analysis. My husband was supposed to return in two weeks, but didn't. He maintains that as long as the medication is helping him, he doesn't need to go back to the doctor. —Mrs. J. D. M."

It is known by now that some polyps so located have a strong tendency to become cancerous. Hence the smart thing is to have them removed before that happens. It's a relatively simple operation. But the surgery after cancer has started isn't. Your husband is being an ostrich about this. The sooner he goes back the more chance he has of getting off easy.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I know a family that by accident had their food freezer turned off and the food thawed and they refroze it. I have heard it was dangerous to eat refrozen food. Could it cause gall bladder trouble?—E."

It wouldn't cause gall bladder trouble—but it is likely to be dangerous. It isn't the refreezing that does the damage, it's the thawing. Like a bottle of milk—keep it in the refrigerator and it stays sweet for a reasonable length of time. But take it out and let it sit in a warm place and the milk sours. Putting it back in the icebox doesn't make it sweet again. So that's the risk of refrozen food: The food can start to spoil while thawed, and refreezing doesn't undo the spoiling.

"Dear Sir: Could you advise me about a remedy to cure rash on the skin caused by using detergents in the laundry?—A. K. B."

Stopping contact with the detergent is essential. Use of bland lotions should help until the rash then subsides. In severe cases, ointments containing steroid hormones may be required. These latter are prescription drugs and your physician will have to prescribe them.

Note to Mrs. G. A.: An aneurysm is a dilation in an artery at one point, and the term "dissecting aneurysm" in the aorta (or large artery from the heart) signifies that the various layers of the artery were slowly split, one by one.

Hardening of the arteries is the usual cause of this. As a rule there are symptoms a feeling of tightness or pain, after which X-rays can show what is happening. Sometimes it is even possible to feel such an aneurysm as a mass if it occurs in an artery in the abdomen.

If discovered early, it can be repaired by various methods, depending on location and type. It can, however, develop rather rapidly, and since your husband had no symptoms directing attention to this, you have no cause for remorse.

Ships Leave Next Week For California Exercise

Three ships of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron leave next week for a month-long series of anti-submarine exercises in California waters.

HMCS Assiniboine, Skeena and Margaree will leave Esquimalt at 8.30 a.m. Tuesday and are scheduled to call at Long Beach and San Francisco during the trip.

Commencing April 7 at Long Beach, operations will be carried out until April 28 when the ships will berth at San Francisco for a four-day visit before returning to Esquimalt May 4.

HMCS Cape Breton, fleet maintenance ship, will leave Monday for a work-up period and will provide the destroyer escorts with maintenance support.

Rocket Plane Goes Up 31 Miles

EDWARDS AIR BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X-15 rocket plane soared yesterday to more than 31 miles above the earth—the highest altitude yet achieved on a manned flight.

Radar computations made on the ground showed that test pilot Joe Walker took the research craft to an altitude of 165,000 feet.

As he was looking around Walker was at the top of his long arc and weightless. He was weightless two minutes, the longest such period ever experienced by a human.

He suffered no apparent ill effects.

The X-15 achieved a speed of mach 3.9—2,590 miles an hour. Walker could have gone faster and higher. The X-15 is designed to reach speeds of up to 4,000 miles an hour and altitudes of 100 miles. Yesterday Walker used only three-quarters power in his steep climb.

Walker's record eclipsed the old mark of 136,500 feet set in 1960 by an X-15 with a less powerful engine.

His speed was below the 2,905 miles an hour set March 7 on the first all-out test of the plane built for research in the nearly airless fringe of space.

G. E. Burrell Succeeds Chatterton

George E. Burrell has succeeded George Chatterton as Vancouver Island regional supervisor of the Veterans' Land Act.

Mr. Chatterton resigned last month to contest the Esquimalt-Saanich federal byelection as Conservative candidate.

Mr. Burrell was born in Alberta. He served six years with the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War. For the past 15 years he has been in Victoria as a VLA field officer.

Mr. Burrell is an accredited appraiser and vice-president of the Appraisal Institute of Canada.

'Hard to Imagine More Contempt'

A 28-day jail sentence and prohibition from driving in Canada for two years was imposed in city court on Ronald Stephen West, 23, of 340 Island Highway, when he pleaded guilty to driving while under suspension.

For using a driver's licence belonging to someone else, on which he had erased the owner's name and replaced it with his own, he was fined $50 or seven more days in jail.

It was West's third conviction of driving while suspended.

When West asked for leniency because he had a wife and child, he was told:

"It is hard to imagine more contempt for orders of the court and the laws of the land than you have shown."

Appearing in Esquimalt and Saanich police courts yesterday, Martin Preikschas, 21, of 308 Uganda, pleaded guilty to four charges of house burglary and one of car prowling.

He was remanded by Magistrate William Ostler to April 10 in Esquimalt court and April 11 in Saanich court for probation reports and sentence.

Preitschas was picked up by Esquimalt police investigating house burglaries March 8 and 9 and the car prowling March 19. In each case value of the articles stolen was less than $50.

In Saanich he admitted breaking into the homes of H. A. Pearce, 2879 Gorge View, on March 15, and Mrs. Hilda G. Smith, 2827 Inlet, March 25.

A Ridiculous Statement

THE recent ridiculous statement made by an official of the external affairs department to the effect that the types of food surplus in Canada are not suitable for the starving Congolese in South Kasai must be questioned.

It is reported that the unnamed spokesman declared that rice is the main need of the famine-hit natives there. This is nonsense—rice is almost unknown among the African population south of the Sahara. True, in the more advanced urban areas some Africans eat it as a sweet—providing it has plenty of sugar on it—but it has never been a part of their main diet.

The staple food of Africans is not rice but maize meal, meat, if they can get it, and vegetables. It is fact that our surplus wheat would be quite useless to them, but some of our surplus canned meat and dairy products—which we have been trying for years to offload—would fill the bill admirably.

As an additional point of interest it is known that many of the territories bounding The Congo have large maize meal surpluses which they cannot sell.

If these countries cannot afford to help their fellow men in The Congo, then it should be very easy for Canada to arrange with them some sort of two-way agreement whereby they could receive the Canadian surplus food they require in exchange for sending their surplus maize to Kasai—thus, at once, salving our national conscience and providing the starving Congolese with their basic food need.

However—as implied by the Ottawa official—the danger exists that Canada will now do nothing to answer the Congolese call for help simply because it cannot supply them with a commodity which is of no use to them.

Either the external affairs department has failed to investigate the situation thoroughly or it is acting on completely false information. Whatever the cause, immediate steps should be taken to rectify the matter and call those responsible to account.

This is a serious matter—it is a matter of principle to Canada as a Christian nation, it is a matter far transcending national and international political issues—and it is a matter of life and death to the people of Kasai.

Unwelcome Suggestion

WITH more than a dash of provocative insincerity, we suspect, one of the Vancouver newspapers has suggested that it may be time to put partisan politics back in city hall, or at least discuss it. Vancouver's city hall, of course, is not Victoria's; but there is always the possibility of the big city setting the pattern.

So—heaven forbid!

Vancouver's city council, the newspaper says, is "variously described as ineffective, uncertain, undignified, uninspired and uninteresting." Some of those words, and others, have been applied at times to Victoria's council.

The party system, it suggests, would produce a mayor with a working majority to put his policies into action, and would provide an alert opposition, a watchdog.

On the other hand, it admits, civic government "might become a carbon copy of the party holding power provincially . . . a greater peril is that of graft and corruption, such as have grown with the party machines in some American cities," and there would be "factionalism, partisanship, political log-rolling, all the machinations which beset party politics everywhere." But, it says, in the clash of parties there would be the fire to set public interest alight.

One would think it had cited enough potential evils to talk itself out of making its suggestion, even for discussion. But although those are major ones, there are more.

Council time used for partisan politicking is wasted time as far as citizens are concerned, and even without political speeches—hardly likely to light any flames—councils often are hard-pressed for time to do civic business properly. Imagine the James Bay spectacle, then, transferred to city hall!

Moreover, some of the best of civic representatives have no discernible political affiliations and probably never could be persuaded to have any. Out with them? Or have an ineffective, uncertain, undignified civic government of shifting alliances and conditions, with other evils to boot?

There must be better ways to light public interest. Even in Vancouver.

Reversing the Process

IT IS interesting to read that the defence research board of Canada has developed a substance that would offset the heat blast of nuclear explosions. This is really a defence measure, then. So much of national defence is actually offence; the invention of lethal devices whose weight and power will overcome the weapons of an aggressor.

This is inescapable, for protection by offensive means is a basic role of defence. But it is a pleasant change to have the process reversed.

Apparently the substance is one that can be used to coat garments and people and thus guard them from the effects of nuclear heat blast. It could save their lives.

How far such protective measures may be furthered to combat other equally lethal nuclear effects remains yet to be seen, but of itself this substance is claimed to be a major break-through in the realm of nuclear protection. It is thus worthy of note. New avenues of research and discovery will be opened up, perhaps with undreamed of protective possibilities.

It is the history of armed weapons that sooner or later a defensive vehicle emerges to counter the balance temporarily held by offensive superiority. The past at least has borne this out, although with the coming of atomic power it has seemed that nothing could be evolved to stand against it, and that offensive power would remain supreme. Hence the emphasis on deterrents of equally destructive weight.

It is not to be assumed that the research board's discovery will change this picture overnight; it may never lead to the complete superiority of defence over offence. But it offers a fresh promise of hope. It suggests that after all protection of major value against nuclear explosion conceivably could eventuate.

Interpreting the News

The Sparring in Laos

By DAVE OANCIA, Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE future of the Laotian crisis now seems to hinge on whether the Russians are prepared to accept a cease-fire between the sparring factions in the land-locked kingdom.

The British—with American support—say this is the heart of the matter.

In a diplomatic note last week, they asked Nikita Khrushchev to agree to an Anglo-Soviet appeal to all Laotian parties to call a truce to the fighting.

They want the three-power supervisory commission that includes Canada to be sent immediately to see that this is observed. An international peace conference could then follow.

No British officials expected a reply from the Russians before the end of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization conference in Bangkok. This ended Wednesday.

Instead of a ringing declaration that Laos must be defended, the SEATO communique called only for "appropriate" action over Laos if Communist attempts to take over Laos continue.

This is the first clear indication that some members, particularly France, were reluctant to get tangled in a jungle war that would probably court Chinese intervention.

French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville said bluntly after the SEATO meeting that new consultations would be necessary before the eight SEATO countries took any collective military action in Laos.

The British government has promised that parliamentary approval would be sought before British troops could be thrown into any Laotian fray. This will take time.

The Philippines and Thailand still are in favor of direct military intervention but the United States appears to be hoping that its show of strength will be enough to induce Russia to take a conciliatory line.

The next move is up to Khrushchev, who must reply to the request for agreement on the British proposals.

As the French newspaper Le Monde, says, the West must now depend on the Soviet leader's general estimate of the world situation for the settlement that now must be sought.

"The evident risk is that agreement over Laos may be no more than a step," says Le Monde's correspondent in the southeast Asian country.

"Will the Communists wish to proceed quickly to the next phase of their plans for the conquest of Indochina? The situation in South Viet Nam offers them the temptation."

New Empress

Don't Spit At Kismet

By CASSANDRA

I SUPPOSE it comes from having the pseudonym "Cassandra" that portents of evil may be part of my business.

So when I saw an advertisement headed "Time: Midnight. Date: 24th April, 1961" and read the following, a distant bell tolled softly in my mind:

"Out on the ocean, beneath a sprinkling of Atlantic stars, the great new Empress of Canada is well on her way. Her first special, never-the-same-again way. Her unique, once-in-a-lifetime Maiden Voyage.

"There's an echo of music; the hum of voices; a champagne flavor of celebration. Corks pop. Laughter ripples. Her passengers dance to the excitement of a great occasion; the birthday party of a beautiful Empress."

* * *

Again the month of April—but the night of the 14th not the 24th. Not exactly midnight but just fourteen minutes before, at 11.46 p.m.

There was a sprinkling of Atlantic stars and a ship was making her unique, once-in-a-lifetime Maiden Voyage.

There was an echo of music; the hum of voices; a champagne flavor of celebration. Corks were popping, laughter rippled and her passengers danced to the excitement of a great occasion.

The name of the ship was Titanic.

I am certain that the Empress of Canada will have a brilliantly successful maiden voyage. But I do wish people wouldn't spit pips at Kismet.

The Egg Man Cometh

For seven years the mysterious Egg Man has sent me his first goose egg of the year.

The annual offering for 1961 has just arrived carefully boxed in all its ovoid splendor.

The Egg Man has never revealed his identity. There is no hint of his personality except that it is impassive and serene. He has always signed himself formally "Yours truly" except once on the 27th of March, 1959, when, in a moment of emotion, it was "Yours sincerely."

He might be a retired steelmaster exercising his powerful personality over a flock of geese in his orchard—or a big shot from Military Intelligence relaxing over Operation "Goosey-Goosey Gander."

The Egg Man has a high place among my odd and kindly friends. He joins the company of the self-styled "Collar Scribe."

The "Collar Scribe" (now alas no more) used to write me philosophical notes on the outside of a stiff, white collar.

The stud holes were tied together with blue ribbon and, with the aid of a two-penny halfpenny stamp and Her Majesty's Post Office, communication was maintained.

Heavenly Guidance

"Patriotism," said Dr. Johnson, "is the last refuge of a scoundrel."

Dr. Verwoerd has often claimed Divine Guidance.

When he arrived back in South Africa he immediately announced that his decision to leave the Commonwealth was "what God wanted us to do."

He added: "A Higher Hand has guided us. We have done His will."

It was reported that his words "were heavy with feeling as he intoned them."

The heavenly inspiration was slightly marred by a nearby group of students singing to the tune of "The Old Grey Mare," "We all say to hell with the Commonwealth — we are Republican boys."

As an unlikely postscript he claimed that South Africa's determination to become a republic, and to clear out of the Commonwealth had made "The friendship with Britain firmer."

If he believes that he'll believe anything.

Uncertainty Reflected

Rhodesian Scene Changing

By ANDREW WILSON, from Southern Rhodesia

ONE comes back to Salisbury after six months' absence and nothing has changed—on the surface. The city skyline rising from the veldt — the semi-skyscrapers the great illuminated pearl above the Pearl Insurance building—is just as one left it, except that the sky is bright with approaching winter, whereas before it was grey with the heat of the coming rains.

Yet this fact itself is a change. It would hardly have been possible in any of the previous seven years of Federation to come back to the capital after such an interval and find no new evidence of investment in stone and steel. The absence of new building reflects uncertainty about the future: whether Federation will continue and equally whether Southern Rhodesia, as one of the three territories composing it, can continue indefinitely as a colony where 200,000 Europeans hold political power over 2,750,000 Africans.

There has been a flight of money from the Federation, which has led the government to prevent people from taking more than five pounds abroad, except by special application. There is a situation like that in immediate post-war Britain, with its austerity program and controls on spending. Restrictions on hire-purchase have struck hard at the retail trade—particularly radio dealers, with thousands of sets on their hands for the five-months-old television service.

Not surprisingly the press is full of angry comments from people who find themselves hard hit.

One effect has been to strengthen right-wing groups who attack the least suggestion of an African share in the country's political life. But another has been to make more Rhodesians think seriously of their future, about a true application of the "partnership" between European and African.

An instance occurred a few days ago with the publication of an article in the teen-age section of the conservative Salisbury newspaper The Evening Standard.

After allowing that everyone needed recreation, like rock 'n' roll, the writer asked Rhodesian teen-agers to consider their position in 10 years' time, when secretarial jobs could not be had for the asking, as they are now, at £50 and £60 a month.

"Do you think you get these jobs because you deserve them?" it asked, in effect, and added: "Don't mislead yourselves, you get them because you are the only ones available, now."

It urged them to learn something about affairs around them, and the Africans with whom they would have to work side by side, and to prepare themselves for their survival and responsibilities in a new society — a world which most of them would be unable to duck by going to other countries where jobs were even harder to come by.

Racial segregation continues to be one of the chief African grievances. The government has done a little to remove it. There are no longer separate counters for Africans and Europeans at the post offices, and Africans may enter the city cinemas. But there is no power to make hotels and restaurants take down the "Right of Admission Reserved" notices which are the polite way of telling Africans to keep out.

No African may enter the Salisbury municipal swimming pool, the public lavatories, the "European" buses or European-occupied compartments in trains. In city shops he may not use the elevators or handle goods, or try on garments, even if he is allowed inside at all. And at nine o'clock at night he must be out of the city and back in the African townships unless he carried a special pass.

Other passes which an African must carry are a certificate of employment signed by his employer (without which he may be picked up by the police and detained as a vagrant) and a slip signed by a European, even by a child of six, if he wants to leave his workplace and go a few miles into the country on Sunday.

Many Europeans are worried about these indignities. A number have joined a "Courtesy Club" which publishes newspaper advertisements urging people of all races to show normal respect to each other. Members pledge themselves not to push ahead of Africans in shop queues and to slow down as they would for any other pedestrian, when they see an African crossing the road. A number of Europeans make a point of inviting an African to their home at least once a week.

It would be wrong to belittle this effort, even though to educated Africans it sometimes seems patronising. But equally it would be wrong to suppose that benevolent sentiments alone can accommodate the swelling African demand for social and political equality.

Washington Calling

Right-Wing Radicals

By MARQUIS CHILDS

HOW dangerous to the well-being of the United States and to America's position as leader of the free world are the radicals of the right?

This is a question being asked here seriously today as these radicals increasingly resort to the tactics of the Communists and the crypto-Communists of the thirties. They practise character assassination without regard for the truth. They spread fear, hatred and suspicion. They advocate infiltration of non-political organizations such as the Parent-Teachers Association and the taking over of those organizations.

In some respects these radicals on the extreme right more nearly resemble the fanatical subverters of Germany and Italy who brought Nazism and Fascism into being. They are often allied with the White Citizens Councils, identifying integration with communism. And at the extreme end of the spectrum they are openly anti-Semitic.

* * *

A few years ago this would have been dismissed as merely another manifestation of what Theodore Roosevelt so aptly called the lunatic fringe—this time on the right rather than the left. But with the rise of the John Birch Society and its intrusion into politics that is not so easy to do. Founded by Robert Welch, a former Massachusetts candy manufacturer, the Birch society now claims nearly a hundred thousand members and a goal of a million paying dues. They are pledged to accept the discipline of Welch and many of their operations are secret.

Welch's secretly circulated book, "The Politician" — now reportedly withdrawn because it alarmed some members, has been compared with "Mein Kampf" if only in the Hitlerian view that the greater the lie the more likely that simple minds will fall victim to it. He calls every president beginning with Franklin Roosevelt a Communist. Of the Eisenhower brothers he writes:

"While I, too, think that Milton Eisenhower is a Communist and has been for 30 years, this opinion is based largely on general circumstances of his conduct.

"But my firm belief that Dwight Eisenhower is a dedicated, conscious agent of the Communist conspiracy is based on accumulation of detailed evidence so extensive and so palpable that it seems to put this conviction beyond any reasonable doubt."

Both the late John Foster Dulles and his brother Allan, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, are called Communists, with the latter ranking next to former President Eisenhower in his power of concealment. A signed editorial following a series of articles revealing the activities of the John Birch Society in one of the most conservative newspapers in the country concluded:

One of the recent political targets of the organization was Senator Milton Young, Republican of North Dakota. Members of the four Birch societies in Bismarck, the state capital, were pushing in the legislature a proposal for a constitutional convention to act on an amendment abolishing the Federal liquidating income tax, 700 government agencies and greatly restricting the government's treaty-making power.

The House had already approved the proposal when Senator Young sent a telegram urging the Senate to defeat it and pointing out that it would mean killing the Garrison dam irrigation diversion project in North Dakota. Thereupon the Birchists came down on Young with their letter-writing and telephone technique seeking to put the Communist label on one whose record has on the whole been conservative.

Senator Thomas Kuchel of California, a moderate Republican, has also been under fire. One of the main goals of the Birch letter-writing blitz is to bring about the impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren who was Kuchel's sponsor in politics. Asked about this at a press conference, he called it a "contemptible and vicious thing" to suggest the impeachment of "one of the great men of our time."

Birch society members have used their pressure techniques to force the showing of the House Un-American Activities film, "Operation Abolition." And they have denounced as Communists anyone questioning its accuracy.

For popular officeholders such as Kuchel and Young this is perhaps no more than a nuisance, even though they are both up for re-election next year. But for citizens — professors, clergymen and others with a conviction of their right to speak critical and unpopular views, it can mean community distrust, a small business harmed or even a job lost. The silence of fear is the alternate penalty the radicals of the right try to impose.

The Packsack

Nice to Have, But . . .

By GREGORY CLARK

ONE of my schoolmates was a sobersides as a boy, more interested in collecting birds' eggs and butterflies than either in his studies or any sport. I saw him a few times in the first war. He was some kind of clerk in a base headquarters at Rouen. In the years following, I used to run into him once a year or so, and when we shook hands cordially, we had nothing to talk about. He was an accountant in some big office, I gathered.

A couple of years ago, he took ill for about three months, and his company discovered to their grief that this quiet, unpretentious, undemanding man was, for a fact, an indispensable big wheel in their business, a bigger executive actually than most of those with executive rank. When he returned to the office, they trebled his salary and gave him a room of his own. Everybody called him mister.

Then an uncle he had never seen died in California and left him $270,000.

I met him in the hat department of one of the big department stores. Having heard all the good news about him from mutual acquaintances, I congratulated him.

"Well, yes," he said, "it's nice to have. But I can't think of anything I want. It would be more welcome if I could think of anything to buy. My wife says I've got to have a new hat. But I don't want one, really."

He was glad I had come along and given him the excuse to walk on with me out of the hat department.

Bully in the Camp

This cold war appears to me as nothing less than a bully in an isolated camp or bunkhouse. He dominates the occupants by physical threat that they dare not challenge. And it meanders on sickeningly and indefinitely. No one dares to challenge and outface the bully.

But something has to eventually happen. Why should a large portion of our democratic population bury their heads in the sand like ostriches? The bully, Mr. Khrushchev and company, is just waiting for democracy to disarm, roll over and kick its little legs in the air. Then what will happen? The world will become a slave to the bully. Keep him guessing and call his bluff. That is the only logical solution to this cold war.

Big Difference

Official figures of September elections given in Colonist of March 28 seem to add up to $560,518 for all parties. This figure does not include any personal expense incurred by individual candidates, only the parties.

Compared with this today, I learned of an aged widow who having received her monthly allowance cheques of $79 has to rush to get the cash on account of having no food in the house, and not a dime left from last month.

And we can afford a couple of billions for defence.

Prayer Needed

About 50 years ago it was announced by a small group of sage observers that world affairs had gotten so completely out of hand as to be beyond the capacity of human ingenuity to govern. Time has amply proved their wisdom, for nothing could be more manifest than that we have reached the period that St. Paul calls "the perilous times of the last days."

The session of our legislature just ended may be more notable for the invective hurled across the floor than for the legislation passed . . . It would seem that, as well as a national anthem, we need a national prayer, which the following words of an unknown author seem eminently fitting:

"God give us men. Times like this demand strong minds, pure hearts and willing hands. Men whom the lust of office will not spoil. Men whom the spoils of office will not kill. Men who possess convictions and a will. Men who love honor and will not lie. For, while the rabble with their thumbworn creeds, their large professions and their little deeds, wrangle in selfish strife, lo, freedom weeps, wrong rules the land, and waiting justice sleeps."

Bad Time to Split

The 1-118 Local of the IWA picked a bad time to disaffiliate with the Victoria Labor Council. With a new contract agreement due soon and with a downward squeeze on general wages imminently possible due to worsening markets, one would think that union unity should be stressed more now than at other times.

But some of those who guide the destiny of the IWA seem to think their shrunken political ambitions should have at least equal consideration to the wages and working conditions of the majority.

Even if initiation of the general philosophy of the New Party could result in redress to a chief wrong claimed by its union promoters, that is involuntary working class contribution to the political funds of corporations via profits, there would still be no justification for partisan political action, as unions are not designed for it.

But the New Party will not abolish the profit system, and King Capital already has enough office-holders; he doesn't need any more, not at the present time anyway.

Population Saturation

Those who point out that population saturation is a greater threat to the world than the H-bomb forget the possibility that new disease could conceivably wipe out dozens of millions of people. What guarantee have we against this?

Research at present concentrates on overcoming old disease but what of the unknown? Science in its urge towards further development may trigger the X factor in man for which there is no cure.

Population increase beyond a certain point could carry the seeds of its own destruction. A principle embraced by nature. Wars have been major decimators, but with peace the order of the day, population saturation grows apace!

No artificial means of control enjoys universal appeal, partly on religious grounds. Something man's dominion could modify. So, short of unknown factors, the problem will be constant till solved. However, Canada need not worry at present. For her wide open spaces are ample —given sufficient oxygen to sustain life!

Congo's Leaders To Get Together

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — The heads of state in the proposed Congolese confederation will confer at Kamina in Katanga province starting April 5, the central government announced Thursday.

The official announcement did not say whether Antoine Gizenga, head of the Soviet-backed regime in Oriental province, will attend.

BETTER CHANCE

However, observers here consider the prospect of Gizenga's attending the conference is now better. They said the chances were slight he would have attended at the previously-rumored site of Bakwanga in South Kasai.

ASKS GUARANTEE

Gizenga has been unofficially reported as saying he would go to Kamina if his safety was guaranteed by the United Nations. A UN spokesman would make no comment on this Thursday.

Meanwhile, some 700 tons of goods bound for United Nations troops in the Congo have piled up on the docks of the Congo River port of Matadi. These goods were seized from UN troops by Congolese soldiers earlier this month.

Mobile Radio To Be Ready In Emergency

OTTAWA (CP) — Mobile emergency radio stations will move to the outskirts of potential nuclear target areas this summer, a CBC spokesman said last night.

Ten classified locations across the country will store the truck-mounted broadcasting units that will serve as an emergency communications link.

Dental Technicians May Make Repairs

EDMONTON (CP) — Dental technicians would be allowed to repair dental plates for the public without working under supervision of dentists under a bill given first reading in the Alberta legislature Thursday.

Deadliest Killer In Forty Years Faces B.C. Woods

By JACK FRY

Federal forestry department scientists are facing the greatest tree disease threat to British Columbia since 1921, a spokesman for the forest entomology and pathology laboratory disclosed yesterday.

A European rust disease never before reported on the North American continent has killed a number of yellow pine seedlings near Smithers, between Prince Rupert and Prince George, said Dr. Ray E. Foster, head of the forest pathology section.

PINE TWIST RUST

After it killed off 20 to 30 per cent of between 300 and 400 yellow pine seedlings at a small experimental plantation near Smithers, the mysterious disease was identified here as pine twist rust, a European disease common from Italy throughout the Scandinavian countries and Russia, he said.

The disease, transmitted by spores, causes small yellow pustules to form on the bark of foliage of pine trees and similar pustules about the size of pinpoints to form on poplar leaves.

THREE STAGES

In its three-stage cycle, the spring spore leaves the pine in late May or early June and travels 100 miles or more to living poplar leaves.

During the summer, a further spore is formed on the poplar leaves. This one can travel as great a distance, intensifying the infection of poplar trees. If these trees become sufficiently infected, they lose their leaves prematurely and tree growth is stunted.

FINAL STAGE

The final spore stage is produced from mid-April to mid-May on fallen poplar leaves. These spores, which can travel only a quarter or half-mile, must go back to the pine trees to start the cycle over again.

The last major infestation of a foreign disease was the European white pine blister rust which came through Vancouver about 1910, but wasn't reported until 1921 when it began to spread across western North America killing many young trees. "White pine blister rust is still with us," he said.

In some respects, the outbreak of pine twist rust is comparable to an invasion of earth by monsters from outer space.

Scientists don't know where it came from, how far it has spread, how many species of tree it can kill or whether it can be held in check by physical or chemical means.

SOME ANSWERS

For some of these answers, the scientists will soon turn to the general public throughout B.C. for assistance. For others, they will try to cultivate and experiment with the disease spores in the confines of a forestry laboratory off Burnside near Douglas.

For a start, the specialists know that in Europe the disease will travel from pine to poplar trees, from poplar to poplar and from poplar back to pine. It cannot spread from one pine tree to another.

Through a concentrated campaign in the near future, the forestry department will seek public support in mapping the distribution of ornamental white poplar throughout the province.

Areas where poplar overlap into stands of yellow pine will be labelled "highly suspect" and subjected to intensive surveys, said Dr. Foster.

Meeting Set

Victoria Color Photographic Association will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alec Reid, 322 Plaskett Place.

Past Haunts Oak Bay

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Striving to cut $157,000 from its public works budget to keep taxes down, Oak Bay council is reaping a harvest of past penny-pinching.

"The biggest part of our troubles is that in bygone years, when materials and labor were cheaper, councils cut sizes of pipes and built narrow streets," Reeve George Murdoch said last night.

Public works estimates for 1961 started off at $759,412, a steep increase over the $590,272 actually spent last year. A special meeting this week trimmed $66,000 from the budget.

"We will have to take out another $91,000 to keep it down to last year's level," Reeve Murdoch said. "But at the same time we will have to make sure we do all essential jobs so we won't be faced with higher costs next year.

"Each year you put off and put off to try to keep taxes down and each year the situation gets worse."

Only relatively minor projects have been trimmed so far to save the $66,000, he added.

A special meeting of the council in committee might be held April 10 to pare the budget down by the further $91,000.

Discoverer Misses Orbit

VANDENBERG A.F.B., Calif. (AP)—Discoverer XXII, radio-equipped to take instructions from earth during its ascent, failed to go into orbit Thursday on a radiation-testing mission.

The air force—which had successfully orbited five previous Discoveries—said Thursday's failure was "due to a mechanical malfunction." It did not elaborate.

Aboard the space vehicle was a batch of biological specimens, sent up as part of a continuing test of the effects of radiation on living matter.

In Highway Construction Cost

City Gets Raw Deal, Mayor Says

Victoria is getting a raw deal from the provincial government in the field of arterial highway construction costs, Mayor Scurrah charged yesterday.

He said the provincial government is prepared to pay the full cost of widening the Patricia Bay Highway to four lanes through other municipalities but has not offered one cent to Victoria to offset cost of the proposed $800,000 Blanshard Street extension.

POINT ON DOUGLAS

Extension of Blanshard Street from its present northern terminus at Hillside to a point on Douglas near the intersection of the Patricia Bay Highway is absolutely essential if the latter is widened, the mayor said.

"It seems a great injustice to me that the province would pay the whole cost of the Patricia Bay Highway project and expect us to pay all of the cost of Blanshard Street as far as the city boundary," he said.

SIMILAR INJUSTICE

A similar injustice exists in the case of Cadboro Bay Road in Oak Bay, he added.

Oak Bay receives assistance amounting to 40 per cent of the cost of widening the road, but "when the same road turns into Fort Street the whole cost must be borne by the city."

"I claim that the city should receive greater consideration," he stated.

Public Utilities Commission has denied applications for Veteran Stages to take over part of B.C. Electric's route in Victoria West.

A spokesman for Veteran Stages said the bus routes will remain as they were, because of the PUC decision.

The company applied to reroute buses from Craigflower bridge to Victoria, via Craigflower Road, instead of along Gorge Road as at present.

In an allied application, B.C. Electric asked permission to terminate its present Victoria West Helmcken bus route at Craigflower and Forshaw Road.

Both applications were turned down by the PUC.

Warsaw Powers Focus Attention on Germany

MOSCOW (AP)—The Warsaw Pact powers, the Communist counterweight to NATO, declared yesterday that "West Germany is turning into a major hotbed of war danger" and have agreed on measures for the "further consolidation of their defence capacity."

The consultative conference of ministers of the Warsaw Pact indicated in a communique that their chief attention was turned upon Europe and Germany rather than the crisis in Laos.

Merchants Discover Own Guilt

Victoria retail merchants who decided to investigate instances of "hogging" metered parking spaces in the downtown area have found some of their own number among the guilty.

Also among the culprits, according to a report to City Hall from the retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, are business people other than retail merchants.

MORE STRINGENT

To curb the practice of feeding a meter beyond the one-hour legal limit, thus taking up parking spaces for long periods, merchants have asked for more stringent enforcement.

The merchants also asked that the pay period in metered zones start at 8 a.m. rather than 9 a.m. and impose progressively larger fines for using metered spaces beyond the one-hour limit.

Industrials Have Big Day At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Advances outnumbered declines 2-1 with industrials, setting the pace which broke a 1929 record, were mixed. Papers continued to improve.

Industrial volume was 348,400 shares, described by exchange officials as the highest since October 1929. No comparable figures were immediately available.

Among most active stocks, Loeb rose 1⅛ to 13 on 20,945 shares and Trans Mountain gained ⅝ at 14⅝ on 8,155 shares.

Among winners, Moore Corp. rose two points at 58, Great Lakes a point at 47½ and Consolidated Papers ⅞ at 44. Imperial Oil at 42⅛ and Trans-Canada Pipe at 24½ both gained ⅛.

Canadian Oil lost 1⅞ at 27⅞ to lead losers. Atlas Steel dropped 1⅛ to 23½ and Canadian Celanese fell ⅝ to 23⅝.

Western oils were strong. Home Oil A gained ⅝ at 11½, Canadian Husky gained ⅛ at 6⅞ and Cent Del Rio added 15 cents at $6.50.

Pipelines Do Well

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market ended the week with a splurge and turned over its heaviest amount of shares since last October.

Moore Corporation and Great Lakes Power led winners.

Liquors were mixed but pipe lines had a good day with Pembina, Trans Mountain and Trans-Canada all advancing.

Early Gains Trimmed

NEW YORK (AP) — Caution took over in the stock market and prices backed away from an early advance. The list was thoroughly mixed at the close.

Except for a few wider moving issues, advances and declines covered a narrow range. Trading was heavy. The market moved up in the first hour and then faded steadily.

Brokers attributed the price erosion to caution in advance of the three-day weekend.

Cowichan Rises

VANCOUVER — Cowichan Copper was in strong demand closing firm at .36. Most other coppers were firm although Craigmont slipped to 9.25.

Trans Mountain at $14⅝ was the strong spot among industrials while Northern Ontario Gas also found buyers at $17⅝.

Coyne's Vacillation Scored by Banker

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The president of Canada's largest bank said yesterday that James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, was changing his mind half-a-dozen times a day, until the chartered banks did not know where they were.

W. E. McLaughlin, recently appointed president of the Royal Bank of Canada during an interview in Victoria yesterday denounced the Bank of Canada's failure to create a stable money market, and was extremely critical of the central bank's fluctuating rediscount rate based on the sale of 90 days treasury bills each week.

SO MANY FACTORS

"So many factors can alter the treasury bill bids that they ought not to be regarded as an accurate index of the money market," he said.

Mr. McLaughlin said he could not ask Mr. Coyne to say what the money situation would be in three or six months time, but he thought the chartered banks should be given a signal of what was in the immediate offing rather than having to wait until the money market was history before they knew what was happening.

TOO MUCH EMPHASIS

Mr. McLaughlin also thought Mr. Coyne was putting too much emphasis on Canada's adverse balance of international payments.

"Our imports and exports nearly balance off, and the adverse balance is created by the inflow of new capital" said Mr. McLaughlin. "I do not agree that this is as harmful as Mr. Coyne suggests for we must borrow from abroad if we are not going to stagnate in our development."

BEHIND COYNE

It would be extremely serious for Canada, in Mr. McLaughlin's view, if the impression was confirmed that Canadians as a whole are behind Mr. Coyne in his statements that foreign capital was not desirable.

"We need money from the United States, Britain and other countries if we are going to find jobs for everyone who is looking for them."

BID RAISED

Another jump was made in the bidding for Canadian Devonians Petroleums Ltd. when an offer of $5.25 for 1,500,000 shares of the company was made by the Teck Hughes group of mining companies headed by N. B. Keevil.

This is the group which made an earlier bid through Guaranty Trust Company.

B-A Oil Company is still in with its bid of 5.10 for all the outstanding shares of the company.

ATLAS RIGHTS OFFERED

Atlas Steel is offering its shareholders the right to purchase at $19 one new common share for each five shares held. Rights will expire April 24, and will provide about $4,000,000 in new funds for expenditure on equipment. The rights cover 218,000 shares now in the treasury.

BIG SPENDING OVER

A. E. Grauer, chairman of B.C. Power Corp., at the annual meeting in Vancouver this week said the period of big capital spending by his company was presently over.

Since 1946 the company had expanded its facilities and brought its plants up to date. The high in capital expenditure was $112,000,000 in 1957 and this year it was scheduled at $53,000,000.

Mr. Grauer said he anticipated smaller capital programs for several years to come.

PAPER SHARES OFFERED

Associated Newspapers of London is reported to be offering to sell control of its Canadian subsidiary Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co. to Price Bros. on a share exchange basis.

Anglo-Newfoundland, which manufactures newsprint largely for its British parent company is owned 51 per cent by Associated Newspapers, whose publications include the Daily Mail.

Gulf Island Sought For Contest Prize

An undisclosed United States corporation is proposing to give away an island as the top prize in a promotional competition.

Preview Ltd., the large New York real estate firm, has been given the assignment to find a suitable island at a price of about $15,000.

Preview has asked its Vancouver Island representatives, Pemberton Holmes Ltd. of Victoria to submit a list of islands in the vicinity which might be of interest.

"We have a number of such islands for sale in the gulf," said Douglas Gage, a representative of Pemberton Holmes, "but we are hoping to compile a fuller list for submission to New York."

B.C. Government Given Warning

'Do Something Quick or Lose Olympics'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Progressive Conservative member of Parliament says British Columbia will lose its chance to play host to the 1968 Winter Olympics if it does not do something drastic.

John Taylor of Vancouver-Burrard Thursday released a letter he sent to Premier Bennett saying:

"I have paid attention to the remarks made by various Olympic officials during the last few weeks and, unless something drastic is done immediately, no site in British Columbia will be awarded the event."

He said only the B.C. government can make commitments in respect to the possible sites — Garibaldi, near Vancouver; Manning Park, Fernie and Rossland.

"The senior government cannot possibly make any plans involving lands which are not theirs."

He said B.C. must take responsibility for building a road into the selected area by the fall of 1962 and for the holding of an international event at the site during the winter of 1962-63.

"The Olympic officials pointed out to me that it would be pure folly to eliminate Banff, which now has all of the major ski facilities and adequate roads and railways in favor of, say, Garibaldi, which at the present time is a mere wilderness connected only by a railway.

"The only way to eliminate Banff from contention with Garibaldi, or even Manning Park, is to have your government give an undertaking that everything will be done to the satisfaction of the Canadian Olympic committee."

The host country for the 1968 Olympics will be chosen in 1963 before the Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria.

Cougar Playoffs Open on Tuesday

Regardless of whether it's Vancouver Canucks or Seattle Totems who provide the opposition, Victoria Cougars will open their Western Hockey League quarter-finals next Tuesday and play the second game at home next Wednesday.

Dates were disclosed last night by league president Al Leader.

Third game of the best-of-five series will be in Vancouver next Friday if Canucks finish third in the league tables. If the Totems should turn out to be the third-place club, they will host the Cougars in the third game next Thursday due to a previous booking of the Seattle arena for Friday.

If the series goes past the minimum number of games needed, the fourth game will be played here on the Saturday.

No dates have been set for the semi-finals between the winners of the Portland-Spokane and Victoria-Vancouver or Seattle quarterfinals but an effort will be made to play the first game in Portland on Monday, April 10, if the Buckaroos win their series.

That's the last day for two weeks that Portland Coliseum will be available for hockey. It's being taken over on Tuesday, April 11, for a "Home Show," which was booked just about the time construction began two years ago.

Westwood Track Opens April 9

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sports car racing, which received a boost here with the opening of the $140,000 Westwood track at nearby Port Coquitlam in 1959, begins April 9 with the Grand Prix, a Northwest Conference international event.

Other racing dates this season are May 7 and 28, July 9, August 6, Sept. 3 and 17, and an endurance race Oct. 14-15.

Whole WHL's Talking About the Jones Boy

Portland Buckaroos know they're going to finish second and Victoria Cougars won't be able to move either way out of their spot before the Western Hockey League schedule ends on Sunday but there is something at stake tonight when the two clubs play at Memorial Arena in the last scheduled home game of the season for the Cougars.

The prize is the league scoring championship, won for the past four seasons by Guyle Fielder.

Fielder is out of the running this season but Portland's Art Jones has a great chance to be his successor, and the Buckaroos can be counted on to give him every assistance.

Jones, who scored 35 goals and made 44 assists in 70 games for the Cougars last season, has long since passed that point total although his goal production is not up.

The lean 25-year-old centreman has 34 goals and 62 assists from his 66 games and is pressing Calgary's Lou Jankowski for the point lead.

Jankowski, with goal-scoring honors already clinched with his 57 scoring shots, has 99 points and only one game left to add to his total. Jones has 96 points and three games left to play, which gives him at least an even chance of winning. This is particularly true since triggerman Gordie Fashoway is back in the lineup after missing a couple of games with a shoulder injury.

CHANCES SLIM

No one else seems to have a reasonable chance of succeeding Fielder. Seattle's Rudy Filion is four points behind Jankowski and one behind Jones while Seattle winger Bill MacFarland is a point behind Filion. Fielder is seven points out of the lead and with Seattle having only one more game left, the chances for any of the three Totems appear slender.

Cougars plan to make a couple of lineup changes for tonight's game, and coach George Agar will take a look at rookie winger Don Makow under fire.

Agar used Ed Lawson last Tuesday against Edmonton Flyers and has the rookie centre tabbed for regular playoff duty after his impressive professional debut. Lawson, however, can only play five games without special permission to have his trial period ended and will probably be saved for post-season work.

SITTING OUT

Sitting it out tonight with Lawson will likely be Bert Fizzell, who will be replaced by Jim Moro to balance the third line. Moro will be right wing, Makow on the port side and Doug Anderson and Bill Johansen will be available either for centre or left-wing.

The Cougars also have a stake in tonight's game.

"We want this one so that we can show that we didn't have to back into the playdowns," Agar said. "Besides, it's our plan to reach the next round and the team we're likely to meet in the semi-finals is the Buckaroos."

Game time is 8.30.

Sailors Salt Away Crown By Walloping Pattersons

Navy salted away another Commercial Hockey League championship at Memorial Arena last night, using the same weapons that have made the Sailors the best in the league since it started—plain old fundamentals.

The Navy wins hockey games because they have more players who know more about the basic play of hockey. It was proved again last night to a crowd of 1,000 that watched the Sailors dispose of Pattersons, 11-3, to win the best-of-five series, 3-1.

EVERYTHING BETTER

Sailors skate better, pass better and shoot better than any team in the league. They also check better, and have enough players with prairie hockey experience to make the difference.

The Sailors might not have enough to scare any of the commercial teams on the prairies, but they have plenty for what they meet in Victoria.

They have John Morris, the most-improved and possibly the best player in the league. He scored twice and set up another. They have Cliff Uhren, who won the league scoring championship, scored once last night and was always dangerous.

Then there are players like Emil Chobater, who scored a hat-trick, Ron Cook, who got two goals, and John Merrifield, Dave Woodruff and Paul LaPointe, who added a goal each.

There was never a time last night after the first minute when Pats looked like contenders. They were an outclassed club.

Bob Jones, Orv Coulter and Brian Erb did their scoring, but Pats didn't beat goalie Art Morton until Navy had a 3-0 lead, and they gave up four goals before they scored again.

EXPANSION?

Next year there are plans to bring Nanaimo and Port Alberni into an Island league. But unless Nanaimo uses its Coy Cup team, the Navy can look forward to another season of relatively clear sailing.

Warren Spahn Goes On and On Southpaw Headed for 300 Wins

NEW YORK (UPI)—The lean, hawk-faced man sat on a bench in the locker room and his voice was positive.

"Nothing," he said with a vast smile, "can compare with this. It's the biggest thrill I've ever had."

That was five years ago. Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves was talking about his 200th victory as a major league pitcher.

Which makes you wonder what he'll say when, along about late July or early August, he racks up his 300th triumph.

Because, from the manner in which he is going in spring training, the fact that he will be 40 on April 23 is making no difference to baseball's all-time southpaw. He has chalked up a trio of Grapefruit League victories and looks as good as ever.

Which is plenty good.

Spahn last year won 21 games against nine defeats and, it might be noted, his 20th in that skein was a no-hitter against the Phillies. But even more important was the fact that it was the 11th time in 15 years that he had been a 20-game winner.

STANDS ALONE

This is a feat unmatched by any other left-hander in diamond annals. The closest to it was the immortal Lefty Grove's eight years in the 20 game circle.

But in Spahn's case one record always seems to collapse in importance when compared with another. He now has a total of 288 major league triumphs and needs only 12 to hit the charmed 300 club inhabited by a mere dozen of the game's greatest. It is a clan composed of such as Grover Cleveland Alexander, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson and their storied likes.

AT ANY TIME

Rival spectators couldn't be blamed if they figured that Spahn's wonderful one-horse shay may collapse at any time. Yet his own optimism is supported by the effortless ease of his pitching motion and his extensive repertoire of pitches.

"With his easy motion and his stuff he could go on damned near forever," says manager Charley Dressen.

It must be beginning to seem to Spahn, and sundry hitters, that he already has been around "near forever." He's been in organized baseball since 1940 and had just come up for a cup of coffee with the then Boston Braves when he went into the army for three years.

HAD HIS TROUBLES

He's had his troubles, too. Spahn took a piece of shrapnel in the neck during the Battle of the Bulge and then, after his return to baseball stardom, had more troubles. He had six 20-game years behind him when he damaged one knee. The next year he hurt the other. Two major operations were undergone.

That's when, as he dropped to a (for him) mediocre season of 17 wins, they began to call him "washed up." The fast ball, they said, was gone. But Spahn fooled them as he added a slider to his pitches. Working hard and staying in shape—and using his head as well as his arm—returned him to the top.

EVERY SPRING

"You have to prove yourself every spring," he analyzes. "You can't ever believe you've got it made."

Working like a rookie, and thinking like a master craftsman, Spahn once again is proving that he's ready for another good year. They say that every pitch he throws has an idea behind it.

This season the idea concerns number 300.

Killed Gridder's Widow Claiming Compensation

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — The pregnant widow of one of the 16 California Poly football players killed last Oct. 29 in a plane crash at Toledo, Ohio, is seeking $20,500 in state workmen's compensation benefits. She claims her husband was employed by Cal Poly to play football.

The claim of Mrs. Karen Van Horn, widow of halfback Gary Van Horn of Paso Robles, is scheduled to be heard May 3.

Mrs. Van Horn, who expects her second child in April, said he had an agreement with the college to be provided with $50 a month for the four-month football season. She claims that makes her eligible for $20,500 in workmen's compensation benefits plus $600 for funeral expenses.

It was the first claim of its kind to be filed over the plane crash. Suits on file seek total damages of more than $5 million.

Summer Soccer Considered By Old Country Promoters

LONDON (Special)—Linked with football's big reform is the push for summer soccer as the first step to reconstructing the league from its present makeup and new moves to "sell" football to the public through the medium of television.

The Football Association News, a conservative organ at the best of times, went as far as it could in a recent publication to suggest that perhaps soccer on a summer evening might not be a bad idea—at least one worth trying.

It said "in the distant past" a closed season was considered necessary because there could have been some clash of interest with another traditional sport—cricket.

"In our modern, quickly changing society, this need no longer apply," the article said.

"We visualize the games being played in the evenings so that there need be no clash with county cricket."

The report declared that professional soccer on summer evenings "may be entirely logical and well worth trying for a period of a few seasons."

STRONG OPPOSITION

This unexpected admission which followed a decision by the strong semi-professional Southern League to experiment with summer soccer next season, was strongly opposed by cricket officials.

S. C. Griffiths, assistant secretary of MCC, said off-season soccer would be bound to affect cricket attendance and claimed it would be an "unfortunate time" to experiment from a cricket point of view.

But whatever the outcome of this clash of views the football fan will possibly be able to watch more play next season from in front of his television screen.

ONE PER WEEK

If plans now under consideration materialize, at least one match a week will be beamed into homes by England's two television rivals.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

This is it . . . Easter weekend . . . First big outdoor weekend of the season . . . and prospects look good for fishermen at Oak Bay, Northwest Bay, Durrance Lake, Campbell and Buttle Lakes, Upper Cowichan and Salmon Rivers.

After a week of fine weather, which should have done much to improve trout fishing, rain clouds are threatening at time of writing and this could be a dampener for the hardy early-season campers.

Hottest spot on the Island for steelheading last weekend was the Salmon River, where one American landed a 21-pounder and local residents, including Dick Harding and Vernon Skogan, got 15, 16, 18 and 19-pounders. But don't get too optimistic. This is a river you have to know if you want to get fish.

Oyster River gave up a 22-pound steelhead last weekend and Campbell River, Quinsam and Puntledge are all still producing steelies.

* * *

First report from Buttle Lake area comes from Jim Boulding, who says trout fishing has been good, but go deep with Red Devils, Deadly Dicks, worms and bobbers, and gang trolls right in front of Strathcona Lodge on the Upper Campbell and at the mouth of the Elk.

Three anglers landed 40 fish from there last weekend, averaging 13 inches each. Lower Campbell is also giving up good trout and, although we have had no reports from them, it is almost certain the smaller lakes will be producing well.

The road to Buttle has been bad, but two graders were working on the road yesterday, in anticipation of the holiday rush.

Wolfe and Comox Lake in Courtenay area have been fair. Upper end of Taylor Arm on Sproat Lake is still providing fine trout fishing and some nice cutthroats are coming from Sproat River. Nanaimo River, Little Qualicum and Big Qualicum are still giving up trout and steelhead.

* * *

Cowichan River is just about reaching fishability stage and from the log jam to the weir at Cowichan Lake has been reported good, although we hear many of the steelies are kelts on their way back to the sea.

Konrad Samer and Walter Lessey are still getting browns and steelhead above the log jam, with Spin 'n' Glo now producing better than roe. Ed Leisch also reports Spin 'n' Glo working better on the Koksilah, where he and his partner pulled out four steelies. There should be an April run into the Koksilah about April 8, if they are on schedule, but they will be smaller fish than they have been getting. John Ebert got a two-pound brown from the Cowichan.

* * *

Here is one for the record book . . . Joseph Klink reports he caught a seven-pound brown trout from the Goldstream three weeks ago. This is the first time we have ever heard of a brown from Goldstream, although there has been an authenticated report of a brown, caught several years ago, from under the falls at Niagara Canyon. Bud Dunnett, who is a Cowichan River brown trout fisherman, says description of Klink's fish "fits the brown to a T."

Salmon fishermen will be interested in the news there has been a school of springs off the top end of the Chain Island off Oak Bay. Brian Inglis got a nine and a 10-pounder Tuesday with large strip, eight ounces and 70 feet of line. Bob Straith got a 10-pounder and a 17-pounder off Oak Bay at the weekend and Dick Ward limited on blues off Trial Island. Bill Broadfoot limited on blues and an eight-pound spring at Clayton's.

George Gilbert hooked into a big one—he estimated it at 30 pounds—off Ten Mile Point and lost it. Joe Sinclair got a 34-pound spring at Pedder Thursday and a 24-pounder was landed there Monday.

Finlayson Arm is teeming with jumping bluejacks, but they haven't been too easy to catch. One day they jump all around you and nobody gets very many. The next day limit catches are reported. We got some Wednesday evening on Tom Mack spoon trolled on the surface, a Lucky Louie plug just tossed out the back while rigging and then on two pounds and wire line with the same Lucky Louie. Bucktailing brought nothing.

Bill and Stan Johnson got 14 earlier in the week on green and white bucktail, Tommy Ord got five, Bill Barr got 15 in two days, Ed Jarvis got seven, including an eight-pounder, George Girton limited, Henry Rollin got five on Wednesday.

* * *

Brentwood end of Saanich Inlet has been producing just about nothing in the way of salmon, but guide Jim Gilbert has found the answer by taking his parties cod fishing. He took Jaycee-Colonist Outdoors Show chairman Eric Charman and Jaycee Fair chairman Trevor Barlow and wife Shirley out cod jigging and they landed a 42-pounder, a 37-pounder and two more than 20 pounds each.

Gilbert says there is no special place to jig. Use two treble hooks, five inches apart on a 30-pound test leader. Hook one just behind the eyes of a six-to-eight-inch whole herring and the other hook into the side, back of the dorsal fin. Then let it go to bottom.

They got their cod off the cement plant in 60 to 70 feet of water and Charman said it provided a fine cod chowder and cod bake for a multitude of friends. Now they want to get another big catch and hold a cod bake as part of the Outdoor Show.

Gilbert says this might be the answer to appease wives who complain husbands spend too much money on fishing and don't bring home enough fish to even make a dent in the family budget.

Fishing from shore in Tod Inlet with a steelhead outfit, Tony Dickens got 15 good-sized cod in two days. He cast a whole herring and then dragged it slowly along the bottom.

Punch Growls 'Get Mad'

Leafs Feel Lash in Workout

Coach Punch Imlach dropped his easy-going manner and cracked the whip over his protesting Toronto Maple Leafs yesterday in a workout so tough that goalie Johnny Bower dropped from sheer exhaustion.

Pudgy cheeks puffed out, Imlach put Leafs through wind sprints and ignored their protests that "we'll leave our game here in practice."

"Get mad," growled Imlach. "Get mad, all of you. That's the way I want you."

Leafs have to do more than get mad. They have to beat Detroit Red Wings Saturday in Toronto and again Sunday at Detroit if they want to square their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final. A loss in either game means elimination.

So Imlach had no sympathy whatever for his Leafs yesterday. During the wind sprints forward Eddie Shack stopped, complaining of cramps. Imlach ordered him to uncramp and finish the sprint.

Saturday's game between Detroit and Toronto will be televised on channels 2 and 6 starting at 6 p.m.

"What about my ticker?" complained Shack.

Imlach is confident enough to have ordered a chartered plane to Detroit for the game Sunday, but admitted the Leafs will have to do something about their "atrocious" shooting.

He also said he isn't sure whether Red Kelly will be ready or not. Kelly missed yesterday's workout, and Imlach won't make up his mind whether or not to use him until game time.

There was a happier frame of mind in the Detroit camp. While not making any predictions, coach Sid Abel left the impression he wouldn't be too surprised if his Wings finished off the series Saturday.

For one thing, everybody is healthy. For another, big Gordie Howe is flying. Howe has scored the winning goal in the last two games, assisted on three other goals in the series and played 30 minutes of each game.

Then there is Terry Sawchuk, who has picked the playoffs to have the hottest streak of any goalie this season. Adding all these things is pleasant arithmetic for Abel.

In Montreal, a relaxed and confident bunch of Canadiens got ready for the fifth game of their semi-final with Chicago Saturday night. But they were fuming over the "dirty" play of the Hawks in Thursday's game.

Canadiens went through a short workout minus four regulars—Bernie Geoffrion, Billy Hicke, Donnie Marshall and Ralph Backstrom—but only Geoffrion is a doubtful starter, and even he may be ready Saturday.

Hicke will wear a helmet to protect a five-stitch cut on his forehead, and Mrashall and Backstrom should be over their minor leg ailments by Saturday.

Hawks also had good news from the clinic. Ab McDonald and Eric Nesterenko will be back in action, putting the Hawks at full strength.

Speaking Briefly

Canadians Recover To Keep Scotch Cup

Big Hec Gervais' Edmonton rink came through with its finest game since the Brier championships yesterday in Edinburgh to down Scotland, 12-7, and bring the Scotch Cup world curling title to Canada for the third straight year.

Canada took a 3-0 lead after two ends when Gervais twice raised out Scottish rocks on his final shot to give his rink the count. With third Ray Werner making most of his shots and second Vic Raymer clicking for the first time in the championships, the Edmonton rink was never behind. The match ended on the 11th when Gervais counted three and the Scots conceded.

Scotland and the United States had forced a three-way playoff with Canada by beating the Edmonton rink last Friday. Canada beat the U.S. rink, 14-9, Saturday to reach the final while the Scots drew a bye.

COLEY HALL, general manager of Vancouver Canucks, has announced he will resign at the end of the Western Hockey League season but continue to act for Canucks in an advisory capacity . . . Gary Player continues to lead the U.S. professional golf tour with earnings of $25,200 this season . . . a superior court jury has awarded $450,000 to exercise boy William Billington, 38, who is in hospital in San Francisco, his brain injured and body almost completely paralyzed. Billington was thrown at Bay Meadows when his horse hit a defective guard rail, and the California Jockey Club has been held responsible.

Garden Notes

Now, Don't Overdo It!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I imagine quite a few of my gardening friends will be making the big effort this weekend—always providing the weatherman is kind to us. With all the digging, planting bending and stooping to be done between now and Monday, I expect I'll be seeing some painfully crippled acquaintances hobbling up Yates Street next week.

It is a bit stupid, when you come to think of it, to go tearing into the garden work like a crazy man after loafing all winter. Seems to me the thing to do is to keep switching jobs at first, doing a little here and there, bringing different sets of muscles into play until we get ourselves hardened up. There are lots of little, easy, puttering-type jobs—quite important to the welfare of the garden—which can be done between periods of digging and other strenuous work.

For instance, the peonies are pushing through the soil surface now and this is the only time of the whole year that you can give them any protection from botrytis. This disease is getting to be as common and as widespread as the leaf-curl disease of peach trees; the infuriating thing about botrytis is that you never know your plants are infected until all those lovely plump little flower buds dry up and fall off.

As with most fungus infections, there isn't much you can do to cure botrytis once it is in the plant, but it can be prevented. The disease doesn't over-winter in the roots, so the plants have to catch it afresh every spring, just like our common cold. The infectious period is just as the new young shoots are pushing their pink noses through the soil surface.

The first step in preventing peony botrytis is to observe good garden sanitation. Topgrowth should be cut down to half an inch below the soil surface in the fall and should go straight to the incinerator. The soil surface around the plant is kept clean and free from leaves or litter through the winter and, in the spring when new growth starts, the emerging shoots are kept dusted with any good fungicide. Rose dust, potato dust, tomato dust, all-purpose garden dust—any of these will do the trick.

Another non-strenuous job that can be tackled now is the taking of cuttings from perennials to propagate more plants. The ideal time to take the most vigorous slips is when the young shoots first appear and, in the case of hollow-stemmed plants like the delphiniums, this is the only time that cuttings are any good—while they are still solid.

I am very sold on the hormone rooting powders such as Rootone and Seradix; I use the stuff even when propagating the easy-rooting things like mint and Wandering Jew. Simply moisten the cut end of the slip, dip it in the powder and insert in the rooting medium.

About the best rooting medium I have run across is a half-and-half mixture of peat moss and perlite; I use this for all indoors or under-glass propagating. In the open, I just dig plenty of coarse sand into the soil, insert the slips, water them in and cover each one with a jam jar until rooted. At our house, nobody ever throws out any jars or wide-mouthed bottles, for they are in constant demand for protecting slips and special seed sowings.

Any potted bulbs which have bloomed indoors can go out now. Ease the whole ball of soil out of the pot as carefully as possible, with a minimum disturbance of the roots, and plant the ball immediately, without making any attempt to break it up into individual bulbs. You can separate them later after the foliage dies down and the bulbs are lifted for summer storage. Plant in full sun and keep fed and watered until the tips of the leaves start to turn yellow.

Soapstone Prints — Sealskin Stencils

Eskimos Bank $62,500

OTTAWA (CP) — Cape Dorset Eskimo artists banked $62,500 from the second annual sale of soapstone prints and sealskin stencils this year.

The 3,500 prints sold out the first day they were on sale in early March and some 350 long-distance telephone calls were received from dealers seeking more. Calls came from Boston and New York.

★ ★ ★

Next year the northern affairs department will turn the whole business over to the West Baffin Eskimo Co-operative formed by hunter-artists at Caps Dorset, 1,300 miles north of Ottawa.

For the first two years the department acted as selling agent and lined up dealers. An independent advisory committee recommended price ranges—from $10 to $75 this year.

★ ★ ★

Director Donald Snowden of the industrial development division of the department said it is possible the Cape Dorset people would act as the printers for Eskimos elsewhere. The group had expressed a keen interest in that step.

The first prints were a big hit. This year 2½ times as many prints were available—although the Eskimos limit the quantity of each one—but there was four times the demand of a year ago.

Receipts last year totalled $15,000.

The prints are the first work with paper by Eskimos, traditional carvers in bone and stone. Flat soapstone surfaces are used to incise figures of animals, people, hunting scenes and legends from Eskimo lore.

The other technique is to cut out patterns in sealskin through which color is worked on paper.

12 Minutes Of Film: $2,000,000

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Elizabeth Taylor's "Cleopatra" has 12 minutes of film in the can, shot by director Rouben Mamoulian. The cost of this was around $2,000,000. But the footage will probably all be scrapped when the movie resumes with Joe Mankeiwicz as director. You can see why Miss Taylor must play Cleo. She's the only woman film star who can almost guarantee a profit.

★ ★ ★

If and when Liz finishes her assignment as "Cleopatra," husband Eddie Fisher will produce her next film, "Anna Karenina," for their own company. He was busy with plans for the project before Liz became ill and has already talked to Peter O'Toole about playing the dashing hero in the Tolstoy epic. "Anna" can be seen sometimes on the late, late show with Greta Garbo playing the woman who gave up everything for the man who brought her love— and death. The 27-year-old O'Toole is currently in Jordan starring in "Lawrence of Arabia."

★ ★ ★

Popular English actor Peter Sellers will star in "The Uncertain Feeling" before he appears in the movie version of "Waltz of the Toreadors."

★ ★ ★

Newcomer Peter Mann was studying for his master's degree at Harvard when he vacationed around the swimming pool at the Beverly Hills Hotel and Frank Capra spotted him and signed him for the juvenile lead in his "Pocketful of Miracles." This is another miracle Mann who had never acted before.

★ ★ ★

The Chinese have come up with their version of "Carmen"—"Wild Wild Rose." It's a movie along the lines of "Carmen Jones," which starred Dorothy Dandridge.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

David Niven is hoping for time off from his "Two Enemies" movie in Israel to attend some of the sessions of the Adolph Eichmann trial. Both the film and the trial start at about the same time.

★ ★ ★

I hope all Academy members have had a chance to see Peter Falk's superb performance in "Murder Inc." So many people in Hollywood have asked, "Who is this Peter Falk?" I have never met him, but I saw him in "Murder Inc." And, in my opinion, Falk's portrayal was not only the best of the year in the supporting actor category, but the best, period. It is a real acting gem, something that happens about once every five years.

★ ★ ★

And someone has come out with an "Emmy for honesty" for Jackie Gleason because a week after his late "You're in the Picture" premiere, he admitted it was inferior television.

★ ★ ★

Eli Wallach gets a clean shirt before each performance of his New York play, "Rhinoceros," and the first thing he does is dirty his fingers on the windowsill outside his dressing room and rub the dirt on his shirt. In the first scene he is suffering from a hangover and a bout of all-night-outis. But why not wear the same shirt for a week?

★ ★ ★

In Rome, Pier Angeli told them the only man she had ever really loved was the late Jimmy Dean. Now she tells it! Pier is playing Lot's wife in "Sodom and Gomorrah." Doesn't she know she shouldn't look back?

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Jesus Christ died for you: that is the Christian gospel. The death of Christ is utterly central to Christian thinking. When Jesus died on the cross He cried, "It is finished."

He came into the world as the Son of God, as the instrument in the strategy of God's plan for the salvation of mankind. The Christian claim is that He died for the sin of the whole world, that He broke the power of evil.

The cross contains the utmost that God can do for man and the person who can't be saved there cannot be saved at all. The cross was, said Paul, "the power of God and the wisdom of God."

To the people of His day as to us today the cross was "foolishness." Man wants to feel self-sufficient. He acknowledges no moral bankruptcy; he will be in debt to no one; he recounts his good deeds; he minimizes his sins; he fails to recognize that it was the "good" people like himself, not the prostitutes and thieves, who crucified Christ!

★ ★ ★

The most damnable thing in the modern Church is our self-righteousness. Yet in moments of light we realize with Paul, "If righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead in vain."

Righteousness doesn't come by the law. Self-conscious effort increases self-centredness and self-righteousness.

The cross is also the distinctive mark of the Christian life. "Whosoever doth not bear his cross cannot be My disciple." The word is never used in the plural in the New Testament. We think of our little troubles as "crossess."

★ ★ ★

To take up our cross, however, means to stand with Christ against the drift of evil, to oppose the fearful power of wickedness, in utter self-abandonment to live the vicarious life. We share the sorrows and struggles of God; "we fill up the cup of the sufferings of Christ."

Alberta Gasoline Tax Up Two Cents a Gallon

EDMONTON (CP)—Legislation increasing Alberta's tax on gasoline and fuel oil two cents a gallon was given royal assent in the legislature Thursday.

The increases, boosting the gasoline tax to 12 cents a gallon and the fuel oil tax to 14 cents a gallon, go into effect Saturday.

Wife-Slasher Goes to Prison

TORONTO (CP) — Walter Hrymalak, 39, who told the court he wanted to disfigure his etstranged wife so that she would return to him, was sentenced Thursday to eight years in penitentiary for attempted murder.

His wife, Sophia, 38, testified she left her husband last August because he fought and threatened her. She said he slashed her face, neck, arms and hands with a pocket knife when she met him last Oct. 7. Medical evidence showed she would have died from loss of blood if she had not received prompt attention.

Hrymalak said he loved his wife and wanted to scar her but not injure her anywhere else.

"I cut her face so she wouldn't be goodlooking and maybe would come back to me," he said.

Greece No. 7

BRUSSELS, Belgium (Reuters)—Greece will join a custom union with the six-nation European Common Market under an agreement signed here Thursday.

Windsor Razing

'Is Wall Really Needed?'

WINDSOR, England (UPI) —One of the walls of Windsor Castle was pulled down yesterday — setting a practical, and perhaps a moral, example.

The wall, surrounding one of the Queen's main residences, was pulled down by workmen and volunteer students.

IMPROVE STREETS

It will be razed finally to improve the appearance of Windsor's two main shopping streets.

Significantly, it was the minister for Commonwealth relations — Duncan Sandys — pried out the first brick with a crowbar.

LOOK AROUND

"Quite often," Sandys said, "walls and fences serve no useful purpose whatsoever. I hope that people all over the country will look around and ask — is that wall really necessary? If it is not, then do as Windsor does — pull it down."

Savannah Scholarship Fund Calls for Another $2,000

The E. J. Savannah Memorial Scholarship fund needs $2,000 to reach the minimum objective of $5,000, it was announced yesterday.

The scholarship — $200 annually — will be awarded to an outstanding third-year science student planning to continue to fourth-year work.

Officials have asked friends and former students of the former professor to send contributions to Victoria University as soon as possible.

Pope Humbles Self

ROME (Reuters) — Pope John Thursday night knelt reverently to wash the feet of 13 student priests during Holy Thursday services in the purple-draped Basilica of St. John Lateran.

The ceremony recalled how Christ washed the feet of his 12 apostles during the last supper as an example of humility and service.

The number getting the alms is governed by the sovereign's age, 35 in the case of the Queen.

In Jerusalem, thousands of pilgrims and local Christians watched Maundy Thursday ceremonies at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, in the Jordanian sector of the divided city.

Church bells which rang throughout Rome during Holy Thursday ceremonies will remain silent until the first mass of Easter early Sunday morning.

Today, Good Friday, Pope John is due to drive to the Basilica of St. Paul outside the walls to lead the Roman Catholic world in ceremonies of mourning recalling Christ's crucifixion.

In Britain thousands were preparing for a different kind of Easter observance — the ban-the-bomb march of some 15,000 anti-nuclear hikers to London.

LT. COL. HAL BECKETT

* * *

World Traveller, Writer Sunrise Service Speaker

A retired Salvation Army officer, Lt.-Col. Hal Beckett of Toronto will speak at the 18th annual Easter sunrise service in Beacon Hill Park at 7.45 a.m. Sunday.

Lt.-Col. Beckett, a world traveller, evangelist, author, and member of the editorial board of the Salvation Army's War Cry, is in the area on an evangelistic mission.

The sunrise service, sponsored by the Victoria Camp of Gideons International of Canada, will be held on high rocky ground east of the road entering Beacon Hill Park from Douglas and Michigan, at South Park School.

Gideons is an inter-denominational and non-sectarian group, and conducts the services as a community undertaking for all interested residents and visitors.

The public is invited to attend. A public address system will enable those who want to remain in their cars to follow the service.

Music will be provided by the Salvation Army band under bandmaster William Hastings. Brig. Byron Purdy, commanding officer of the Citadel Corps, will be song leader. Cornet soloist will be bandsman Edwin J. Carr.

By TERRY HAMMOND

Victoria city council's greatest champion of "cash-and-carry" municipal financing told the Colonist yesterday he getting ready to throw in the sponge.

In a major statement of personal policy, Mayor Percy Scurrah said he has been forced by circumstances to the conclusion that the end of the 10-year "pay as you go" policy for capital improvements is finally in sight.

"We can't stand still," said the mayor.

He pointed out that the city's major source of capital project revenue for the past decade—land sales—has all but dried up.

But the need for capital projects has not diminished and is considered by some city officials to be greater than ever before.

Some major expenditures are essential "if we are going to keep the downtown area in a healthy condition," said Mayor Scurrah.

He would not discount the possibility that he may recommend capital borrowing to city council soon and that a money bylaw might be placed before the electorate before the end of this year.

"This is certainly going to come up when the budget comes before city council," he said.

He said he would only reluctantly abandon the pay-as-you-go policy which was instituted here in 1950 when the city's finances were found by incoming City Manager C. C. Wyatt to be in critical condition.

Mr. Wyatt, the architect of the policy, last year indicated his feeling that it has outlived its usefulness when he placed a capital expenditure program before city council.

Taxpayers Well Served

Mayor Scurrah pointed out yesterday that the decade in which the city only once went to the money markets for a capital municipal project has served Victoria taxpayers well.

As a result of its refusal to borrow money the city has reduced its net bonded indebtedness to $7,500,000 from a figure of nearly twice that in 1950.

Today, he pointed out, the city enjoys one of the lowest per-capita debts ($137.69) among Canadian cities and has unexpended borrowing powers totalling some $14,700,000.

If the city goes to borrowing to meet its capital project plan it might be able to do so without new debt retirement being directly reflected in the mill rate, the mayor said.

He hoped that the annual increase in total assessment might provide the additional tax revenue with which to retire new debt and pay debt charges.

Mayor Scurrah's statement on capital borrowing was accompanied by his expressed conviction that the city cannot long delay the $800,000 Blanshard Street extension project and the $200,000 revamping of the Johnson, Wharf and Store Street intersection.

"These and other projects to my mind are essential and I don't see how they can be financed from revenue," he said.

Failure to go ahead with the Blanshard project will create a severe traffic bottleneck when the province completes its widening of the Patricia Bay Highway to the city boundary, said the mayor, and reconstruction of the downtown intersection is essential to creating a one-way street traffic pattern.

"One-way streets are coming," the mayor emphasized, whether we like it not not."

He said Douglas Street is currently carrying some 24,000 cars a day and that certain peak periods make it imperative that an additional north-south artery be provided.

Winter Work Plan Urged

The time to start planning for the next winter work program is now, the city was advised yesterday in a letter from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber said it is practically certain that senior governments will again participate in such a program next winter and that planning should not be left in abeyance until an actual announcement is made.

Building Record Totters

With March building permits reaching $1,179,768, construction totals for 1961 exceeded those of last year for the first time.

SAME PERIOD

Permits amounting to $2,254,645 were issued at city hall during the first quarter this year compared with $2,212,878 for the same period one year ago. Building permits for all of 1960 were the highest on record.

Value of permits taken out this year "indicates a trend that may see 1961 building totals paralleling the record established in 1960," city architect Roderick Clack said yesterday.

LARGEST PERMIT

Largest single permit issued in March was for the $450,000 Canada Permanent Mortgage Company building to be built on the site of the former Balmoral Block at Douglas and Fort.

5,500,000 Daffs Sent

Island bulb growers air-shipped 5,500,000 daffodil and tulip blooms from Patricia Bay airport for the Easter market in eastern Canada.

Robert Kolb, Victoria manager of Trans-Canada Air Lines, said last night the shipments were an increase of almost 12 per cent over last year's record. The 15,000 boxes weighed 112 tons.

Concert Monday

The 50-member band of Kitimat's Mt. Elizabeth Junior-Senior High School will present a concert at S.J. Willis Junior High School at 8 p.m. Easter Monday.

The band will play the "Beguine Festival" and selections from "My Fair Lady" among other numbers. Tickets may be obtained at the door.

Packed Churches Expected For Services Today, Easter

Capacity attendance is expected at churches throughout the city for today's Good Friday services and Sunday's Easter services, marking the most significant of all Christian holidays—the resurrection of Jesus.

Metropolitan United Church will have a three-hour service sponsored by the Victoria Ministerial Association, from 2 to 5 p.m. today and several other devotional periods. Sunday's special services will be at 9.15 and 11 a.m. and at 7.30 p.m.

THREE HOURS

Services starting at noon today and lasting three hours each will be held at St. Mary's on Belmont, where Archbishop Harold E. Sexton will give a series of meditations on the seven last words of Christ, and at St. George the Martyr at Cadboro Bay and at St. Barnabas's on Belmont, which will both have Litany, Liturgy and Preaching of the Cross.

At Christ Church Cathedral today, a young peoples' service will be held at 9.30 a.m., Matins at 10.30 a.m. Rev. Canon T. D. Somerville of the Anglican Theological College in Vancouver will conduct devotions from noon to 3 p.m. Evensong will be held at 5.15 p.m.

FESTAL EVENSONG

On Sunday, communion will be celebrated at 7, 8, and 9.15 a.m. in the cathedral. Choral Eucharist will be sung at 11 a.m. and Festal Evensong will be sung at 7.30 p.m. Communion will be celebrated at 10 a.m. in the James Bay hall.

The choir of St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Royal Oak, will present Stainers "Crucifixion" at 7.30 p.m. today.

EASTER GARDEN

An Easter garden in the form of a miniature Gethsemane with an empty tomb will be part of the decorations at St. Matthias' Church, where a special Easter festival of nine lessons will be presented at 7.30 p.m. Sunday, comprising hymns and carols and the Easter story read by representatives of parish organizations.

Esquimalt United Church, which held a communion service last night, will have two morning services Sunday, at 9.30 and 11 a.m.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will have an 11 a.m. service today and three Easter services Sunday, at 9.30 and 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

First Baptist Church will have an 11 a.m. service today, with the young people conducting the service and Rev. E. Boom of Nanaimo speaking. Special Easter services will be observed Sunday.

First United Church will have Easter services at 9.30 and 11 a.m. Sunday, and an Easter drama, "The Cup," by Donald J. Lute, in the Fellowship Hall at 7.30 p.m. the same day.

Evangelistic Temple will hold a fellowship rally at 3 p.m. today, and another service will be held at 7.30 p.m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

At St. John's Church, on Sunday, communion will be held at 7, 8, 9 and 11 a.m. A Sunday school service will be held at 3 p.m. and Festal Evensong will be at 7.30 p.m. A special Good Friday service will be held at 11 a.m. today.

Salvation Army will have two Easter services at the Citadel on Sunday, at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m., with Lt.-Col. Hal Beckett as main speaker. He will also speak during a service there at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Crash Hurts Two Children

Two children, passengers in their parents' cars, were injured last night in a two-car crash at Queens and Chambers.

David Cheeseman, 7, 2810 Graham, was treated for head injuries at Royal Jubilee Hospital, and Diane Simmons, 3, 2537 Forbes, was released from St. Joseph's Hospital after treatment for a cut lip.

Police said the cars were driven by Ronald Simmons, 2537 Forbes, and Margot Cheeseman, 2818 Graham. They collided in the centre of the intersection.

Criminal Negligence

Death-Car Driver Jailed Six Months

A six-month jail term, and a two-year prohibition from driving anywhere in Canada, were handed down in Assize Court yesterday to a Sooke man charged with criminally negligent driving.

William John Stewart, 47, of Kemp Lake Road, had been convicted by a jury of causing the death of Jack LeRoy Cameron, Sooke Road.

Also killed, when a car driven by Stewart crashed into a wrecker at Dewdney Flats last Oct. 21, was Cameron's brother Tom, also of Sooke Road.

BCE Bus Sale Negotiation Off

A short statement by a BCE official said merely that negotiations had been discontinued "by mutual consent."

HEADED GROUP

Ivor W. Neill, general manager of the BCE transportation division from 1948 until his retirement in 1954, headed a group of businessmen who wanted to buy the regular bus services in Victoria and on the mainland, and also Pacific Stage Lines and charter and sightseeing services.

For the past two months a complete study and appraisal of the bus services has been carried out by a firm of United States transportation engineers.

MANY POINTS

"Negotiations between Mr. Neill and his associates have been thorough and have found many points of agreement," the BCE spokesman said.

"However, by mutual consent, negotiations have been discontinued."

The announcement was welcomed by David Dickinson, 2926 Qu'Appelle, president of the Victoria local of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, which had called for "nationalization" of the service instead of sale to Mr. Neill and his associates.

TAKE OVER

In a statement issued Feb. 16, the union proposed that the provincial government and municipalities concerned should take over the service, rather than permit private sale.

"We are very happy this has happened," Mr. Dickinson said last night. "We are happy working for this company, anyway.

"Personally, I would rather have the B.C. Electric holding the transportation system because it can give better service by subsidizing through the sales of power."

Architect John H. Wade indicates how he'll incorporate coat-of-arms plaque from old Matson home in Salvation Army home for elderly people. With him are Mrs. Alan J. Campbell, who will head residential canvass for the building fund; W. R. McIntyre, chairman of home's advisory board, and Brig. C. J. Milley.

Anyone Has Green Thumb If He Has 'Long Green'

SUCCESS STORY: Friend of ours decided to haul all the plants out of his window boxes and "rest" the soil for a year before replanting.

Not to be outdone by his neighbors he sneaked down and bought a bunch of plastic tulips and other flowers and one night planted them in the box.

WRITE NOW, SAVE LATER: Informants say that the letter we ran the other day from that 18-year-old African boy Muba Shomibare may be a genuine request for friendly trading but . . .

The odds are against it.

"This charmingly naive offer to exchange African articles of a great variety from 'my little gift shop' for American products has been exposed on several occasions as a clever little racket," said Agent XLL, a man who should know.

"North American products command high prices in the native bazaars," he added. "On the other hand the type of native articles offered in exchange are virtually useless."

Our suggestion: Write to young Muba and say that you will send wash 'n wear slacks on receipt of his "gifts."

That way it won't be you who is taken.

SOUND DECISION: One argument for local amalgamation was voiced the other night by a long-time resident of the Haultain-Richmond area following a traffic accident there.

Every time an accident takes place at the corner, she said, police from both Saanich and Victoria rush to the scene—it's close to the boundary.

"There's so much noise I wish they would amalgamate," she said a trifle plaintively.

SECOND SIGHT: The weekly press hereabouts scored a couple of noteworthy news beats this week.

Seems that a birdwatcher has spotted the first hummingbird of the season out Deep Cove Way.

And our old friend Caddy is back for the tourist season. Mrs. A. R. Stacey saw the monster the other morning gamboling off the foreshore at Sidney.

She did a double take—with binoculars.

Mrs. Stacey promptly sketched old Caddy.

While watching closely she saw a head rise from the water and a seagull alighted on the monster's neck. She looked at the tail for a moment and then back to the head and lo . . . the seagull was gone.

Mrs. Stacey assumed that Caddy had eaten it.

Plaque Bridges Past and Future

A picturesque link between past and future was presented yesterday to representatives of the Salvation Army.

When the new Army home for elderly people is raised on a promontory off Dunsmuir Road, overlooking the entrance to the Inner Harbor, a stout, three-panelled wooden plaque will occupy a place of honor in the structure.

The same plaque was built into the home first raised on the site. It is the coat-of-arms of the builder's family, the Crofts, flanked by his initials on one side and the date on the other.

From the Henry Croft family the house became the home of J. S. H. Matson, former owner of The Daily Colonist, and his family. On Mrs. Matson's death a few years ago, the property was bequeathed to the Salvation Army.

The house was found not structurally sound for an Army home for elderly people, but on its site such a home will rise within the year.

Sod-turning ceremonies are set for April 29, and a campaign for building funds will be launched at ceremonies in the Salvation Army Citadel on Pandora April 30 at 3 p.m.

Accepting the plaque yesterday were Brigadier Harold Chapman, here from Toronto headquarters to launch the campaign, and Brigadier C. J. Milley.

Last year, while the old home was being demolished, the plaque disappeared.

H. T. Matson, son of the former owner, appealed through the press for its return—and one morning found the plaque leaning against a post outside his home. There was no explanation.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: In a few days my husband must go to jail for 30 days because he ignored several traffic tickets and then got lippy with the judge.

The thought that my husband is going to have a jail record makes me sick, but the biggest problem is what shall I tell our two small children? The little girl is 20 months old and the boy is five. Please rush your advice. I'm depending on you.—WIFE OF A JAIL-BIRD.

Dear Wife: It doesn't make a bit of difference what you tell the little girl, but you'd better tell your son the plain, unvarnished truth.

Emphasize the point that Daddy is not a bad man and that he didn't hurt anybody. Explain there are laws which everyone must obey when they drive cars and Daddy did not obey the law so he must go to jail.

A jail sentence is a matter of public record. Protect your son against being hurt later by arming him with the truth now.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a high school graduate, 19, good-looking but not beautiful.

My mother has been divorced three times and considers herself an authority on marriage. According to her, love is a lot of hokum. Her theme song: "I married for love three times and it ruined my life."

One of the owners of the store where Mom works is very fond of me. I've dated him a few times because Mom insisted. He's a nice person but certainly not a man I could get excited over. He's 41, and a bachelor.

Mom says he's a catch and if I pass him up I'm crazy. If there's no such thing as love I may as well have some of the nice things in life that money can buy. Your practical advice would be greatly appreciated.—MOONGLOW.

Dear Glow: If you wanted advice on how to bake a beautiful cake would you go to someone who is famous for flops?

If your mother would count this man's years instead of his bankroll she'd discover he's old enough to be your father. He's undoubtedly closer to her age than yours. If he's such a catch suggest she catch him for herself.

Dear Ann: I am going (or I should say was going) steady with a big wheel at school. We are both 17.

Last week was my birthday. I had a party at my house and most of the kids brought gag gifts. My steady gave me a beautiful beaded evening bag which must have cost at least $35 according to my mother. I was knocked out of my mind.

This afternoon my mother told me that my boy friend's mother phoned and asked if I had received an evening bag from her son. Mom said yes and added it was a pretty expensive gift from a young kid. His mother replied, "Indeed it is. My husband gave it to me for my anniversary and I'd like it back." Mom got on the bus and returned it within the hour.

What should my attitude be toward the fellow? My folks are balling.—STUNNED.

Dear Stunned: Find other friends—and fast.

Plan Exhibit

'Retiring' Isn't Easy In Art-Conscious City

By EILEEN LEAROYD

A couple in their seventies who "retired" from business 16 years ago, are a good example of what happens to those who try to "retire" in Victoria.

They admit with rueful mirth that they've never worked so hard as since their retirement. However, they have enjoyed it more, they say.

Mr. J. E. Casson, 75, and Mrs. Casson, just a little younger, are "fully employed artists."

They are presenting an exhibition of their combined works in the United Church Hall, Cadboro Bay, April 15. The exhibit is the fruit of their retirement.

PLUMBING

"Plumbing, heating and sheet metal work was my business here for 50 years," said Mr. Casson. "Now my life is painting and pottery-making. Instead of worrying about pipe-joining, I now lie awake nights wondering if my latest pottery effort will explode in the kiln, or emerge in one piece for finishing."

Mrs. Casson was the first member of the family partnership to take any formal art lessons.

"About 40 years ago I took a few lessons from the late Sister Mary O'Syth of St. Ann's Convent, later I studied with the late Mrs. Rose Willis and took some sketching lessons from Arthur Checkley."

After her husband retired from the plumbing business she persuaded him to begin "painting and potting" and they were soon both active members of the Oak Bay Art Club and the Saanich Peninsula Art Club.

The exhibit in the United church will be their second.

Those attending will see 60 water-colors, about 10 ceramic displays and a number of pieces of beautifully painted china.

CHINA

Mrs. Casson specializes in decorating the china.

"I buy plain white glazed French, Japanese or Czechoslovakian china. I use what I call "china colors." These come dry and must be mixed with oil of capaiba and sometimes turpentine. Usually each has to be fired three times, one time for each color.

"Some colors burn each other out. It has to be put on fairly lightly or it blisters."

She has done several tea sets but these have been given away as gifts. Her favorite, using a design of double roses, was given to a niece in England.

Mr. Casson who can best be described as a merry individual with great enthusiasm for his artistic pursuits, has done the larger share of the water-colors, and all the ceramics.

The Cassons have three married sons and they live at 2807 Dunlevy Street.

Miss Sara Spencer will open their exhibition at 2.30 p.m. in the Arbutus Road hall. Conveners of the tea, which is part of the afternoon and evening display, are Mrs. Wm. Stephenson and Mrs. Stanley Kerr.

Proceeds will be used to equip the church kitchen.

Rummage Sale at Ladysmith

A hard working staff of members sold hundreds of articles of kitchenware, nicknacks, clothing and miscellaneous items at Ladysmith General Hospital women's auxiliary rummage sale on Saturday in Lions' Den, which realized $170 for general funds.

In charge of the event were convener, Mrs. John Luscombe, and president Mrs. L. H. Shupe. Treasurer was Mrs. Arthur Nicholson.

General sales of such merchandise continues year round through the "thrift shop" open Friday afternoons, located on First Avenue. A call to the president, Mrs. Shupe, will assure pick-up of donations. This is the auxiliary's major fund raising venture.

CGIT

Sunrise Service

Daffodils will be arranged in the form of a floral cross in the centre of which Sandra Shaw will place a lily, symbolic of the Resurrection, at annual Easter sunrise service of Canadian Girls In Training at the Beacon Hill Park Lookout, on Sunday morning at 7.45.

Girls attending will represent Baptist, Presbyterian and United Churches. Rev. A. L. Avery, St. Aidan's United Church will give a meditation; Miss Danny Hayes, C.G.I.T. council president, will conduct the service, scripture will be read by Joan Dunn and prayers said by Diane Willaston and Jose deBourcier.

Music will be provided by Betty Warren and Lorraine Ward. In the choir will be Pamela Haycock, Shari Stevens, Ruth Hamill, Gail McDermid, Sally Mantell and Verna Brown. Offering will be received by Frances Howard, Barbara Lebold, Patricia Atkinson and Shirley Perkins.

Convener is Mrs. C. Haggland, sponsor of the girls' council.

The pixie hat is making a fashion hit with teen-agers. Many of these hats come in kidskin. Some are fringed or trimmed with silk braid. Colors are as bright as Easter eggs: orange, violet, sea green and jonquil yellow. Some of the hats are priced as low as $1.

At Strawberry Vale

A wedding of interest here and in England was solemnized in St. Columba, Strawberry Vale last evening, when Rose Marie Ferreira, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ferreira of San Juan Avenue was united in marriage with Mr. Jonathan Page, son of Mr. H. W. C. Page of London, England, and Mrs. S. A. Halling of 4124 Santa Anita.

Rev. J. Rogers officiated at the service, and Mr. Stanley Halling played the organ music.

The bride chose a formal gown of nylon net over satin, the sleeves forming a point over the wrists and the scalloped neckline outlined in French lace. Her chapel veil fell from a rhinestone coronet and she carried a spray of red roses and ivy.

Miss Ann Ferreira was bridesmaid for her sister. She wore a blue sheath of net over satin and carried pink tulips. Niece of the groom, Suzanne Page, age five, was a flower-girl in yellow with a wreath of daisies in her hair and carrying a basket of daisies.

Mr. Roland Parsons, was groomsman and Mr. Bruce North was an usher. At a reception in the church hall, Mr. J. North proposed a toast to the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Page will live at 2915 Austin Avenue.

Help Jordan And Ghana

A substantial sum was raised at a recent dinner meeting of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club to assist in the purchase of material and equipment for the Ramallah Handicraft Society in Jordan and to build a chalet for women students at a residential college in Awundome, Ghana. The Canadian Federation of Business nd Professional Women, consisting of 180 clubs, are uniting in this project.

The Glory of an Easter Day

Thousands of Victorians will stroll through Beacon Hill Park this Easter weekend. There they will see a myriad of blossom and a golden hill of daffodils, with tulips, looking like tall, straight lollypops, just coming into bloom, and the air filled with the perfume of hyacinth. Ducks and stately swans will sail in the ponds and sometimes the air will be white with the wings of seagulls dipping and diving for the attention of those feeding the birds. It's Easter in the park.—(Photo by William Boucher.)

Tortured Foot Fault of Shoe

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fashionable on the outside, milady's pointed shoe may hide a tortured foot, suffering from clawed toes, corns and calluses, a doctor said Thursday.

Dr. Gordon Grant, vice-chief of staff at Victoria's Jubilee Hospital, said the narrow Italian-style shoe is a perfect example of what a shoe should not be.

"No orthopedic surgeon need fear unemployment while this fashion persists," Dr. Grant told the annual scientific assembly of the College of General Practice of Canada.

With the shoe, wearers of high arches were almost certain to develop clawed toes. Corns and calluses will appear.

"Shoes of adequate length and width are needed," he said.

"Advanced claw foot is a very difficult surgical problem," Dr. Grant told the college, a seven-year-old organization which comprises 2,100 of Canada's 8,500 general practitioners.

"For all practical purposes, we can blame the modern shoe for most of the acquired foot troubles."

Lady Clementine Churchill Has 76th Birthday Tomorrow

LONDON (UPI)—Lady Clementine Churchill, one of the best loved women in Britain, will observe her 76th birthday quietly tomorrow.

Sir Winston Churchill, the husband she has inspired, nurtured, and loved for 53 years, is on a yachting holiday in the West Indies and she has arranged to spend the day quietly with her daughter Mary and her husband, Minister of Agriculture Christopher Soames.

Birthday

The Churchill household said a birthday telephone call and presents were family matters not to be made public.

But celebration or not, the thoughts of Britons turned to "Clemmie," the remarkable wife of one of history's most remarkable men.

Lady Churchill was asked once how she managed. How did a wife deal with a man who—loved as he might be, and loving in turn—was stubborn, opinionated, of apoplectic temper, and acclaimed by the world as a genius and unparalleled leader of men?

Her formula, she said, was "never to become aggressive." The wife "who forces her point may well lose her advantage," she said. "You will gain far more by quietly holding to your convictions."

The proudest and happiest achievement of her life has been as wife to Winston Churchill.

It is the measure of her greatness that she sustained a nation in sustaining him.

Sir Winston, just after leading his country through the bitter hours of World War II, told a Strasbourg audience that "it would not be possible for any public man to go through what I have gone through without the devoted assistance of what we in England call my better half."

But at their spectacular wedding in 1908, few foresaw that the match between the bumptious young soldier-politician and the popular daughter of Sir Henry and Lady Blanche Hosier would one day be hailed as "the marriage of the century." London gossips whispered that it could not last six months.

By the standards of the day, they had groups for being skeptical. The slim, brunette beauty who had entranced London bachelors for over six seasons was born with blue blood in her veins but no silver spoon in her mouth. And her acknowledged charm would not finance the campaigns of the ambitious young member of parliament.

But even Clementine's childhood lack of money turned out a blessing. Because her divorced mother could not afford London prices, "Clemmie" had grown up in Northern France, and her French soon made up for Churchill's notorious linguistic failings.

Although she never sought the limelight surrounding her famous husband, when the need arose she took over any duty. This included campaigning for his elections, participating in his official tours, supporting him in defeat and defending him under attack.

But it was not alone in moments of despair that Churchill leaned on his wife. He admitted she influenced the whole of his life.

"My marriage was much the most fortunate and joyous event which happened to me in the whole of my life," he said once, "for what can be more glorious than to be united in one's walk through life with a being incapable of an ignoble thought?"

Despite her unprepossessing manner as the gracious, grey-haired grandmother of five, Lady Churchill's appearance on the streets of London invariably draws an affectionate crowd to cheer her.

But if she seemed unimportant in the glare surrounding him, Winston Churchill has set the record straight.

"I married," he said, long ago, "and lived happily ever after."

Now that seamless stockings are popular it is wise to remember to rinse out nylons every time that they are worn. Laundering "tightens" the stockings so that the tubular type will cling attractively to your legs.

from sear heat to simmer heat
when you cook with gas!
Gas gives you instant flame and temperature change – so important, no matter what you're cooking. Boiling vegetables, for example: start with a high heat, and the moment the water comes to the boil you can cut the flame to simmer. Heat disappears instantly. No boiling over; no loss of vitamins from prolonged boiling; and vegetables stay plump and firm. You enjoy the same precise control over heat in the oven, too. And oven heat is completely even – the same heat anywhere on the oven rack. You can bake four cake layers at one time – and not be able to tell them apart. Discover how much faster and easier it is to get perfect cooking results when you cook with gas. See the wide variety of ranges on display at your appliance dealer's now.
If you have any questions about the operation of your gas or electric range, the B.C. Electric Home Service Centre will be glad to help. Telephone EV 2-9261.

9 IN MEMORIAM

ORR—In loving memory of a dear daughter, Violet Jane Orr, who passed away March 31, 1960.
What would I give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
—Her loving mother, Mrs. Jessie G. Salmon.

ORR—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Violet Jane Orr, who passed away March 31, 1960.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach;
Sweet to remember her, who once was here,

TV TALK

Offbeat but interesting is "Royal Gambit," the show chosen for the CBC's Festival '61 Monday night.

A contemporary German play, "Gambit" resurrects King Henry VIII and his six wives and puts them in a modern-day setting and argues through the characters that modern day problems are rooted directly in the Renaissance.

"Peek at the set through the window. The interference is bound to disappear as soon as you're in the house."

Veteran actor Albert Dekker has the role of Henry, and Tani Seitz plays Anne Boleyn. The show will be seen over Channels 2 and 6 at 9.30 p.m.

Unusual Opportunity
A most reasonable and understanding vendor is hard to find! However in our case it has happened. He has given us the opportunity to sell his building and business if you can pay for the stock at actually less than invoice price. Another most attractive feature is the fact that there are five other steady rentals bringing in approximately $240 per month additional revenue. The hardware and gift shop business is very steady and well established—present owner having been there for over 17 years. Building has recently been rewired and replumbed, also stuccoed. Busy shopping area assures continued success. This is as much as we can tell you here, but come in and discuss this unusual offer. NO PHONE INFORMATION, PLEASE. For appointment to discuss this further call Gordon Marshall or Roy Smith, EV 2-2157.

There is no more eloquent card in bridge than the deuce. As a signal, it says unmistakably, "Partner, I do not care for our trick-taking prospects in this suit." It usually conveys a further message, too; by inference, it suggests that there is some other suit in which hope lies.

North's two club response asked about a fit in the spade suit and when South revealed the fit, North was not quite strong enough to bid the game himself but urged partner to do so. South, with his points in primary cards, was glad to accept the invitation.

Dummy won the first club with the ace and East dropped the deuce. Declarer led to his diamonds and the jack forced West's ace. Warned against continuing the clubs, and with South himself attacking the diamonds, it was no difficult feat to ferret out the heart shift. Declarer tried to win the trick with dummy's queen, but East covered with the king and forced out South's ace.

Declarer cashed the king of diamonds, ruffed his last diamond in dummy and led trumps for a finesse. West took the trick with the king and the defenders cashed two heart tricks to stop the game.

The defence was good, but declarer could have saved himself either of two ways. If he had first tackled the trumps, even after a heart shift he could make the hand by drawing a second round of trumps, cashing his top clubs and going to dummy with the third round of trumps, to discard one losing heart on the fourth club. Later, he could still have saved the day if he had ducked the heart lead in dummy and also allowed East's nine-spot to hold the first heart trick. East couldn't afford to continue the suit and by the time West got in again it would be too late.

City Hires Centennial Secretary

A full-time co-ordinating secretary for the Victoria Centennial Committee has been employed at a salary of $450 a month, a spokesman for the committee confirmed yesterday.

The position will be filled April 15 by William Dow, 49, a former RCN officer who at present is conventions co-ordinator for Harrison Hot Springs Hotel.

Mr. Dow, who served in the navy for more than 20 years, retired in 1959 with the rank of lieutenant. He has had promotional experience with California resorts and New York Hotels.

The centennial committee, whose task it is to plan a celebration program for 1962, will meet late next week to discuss further plans.

Christianity has never been primarily concerned with the mere physical components of life and death, Ivan R. Edwards, chief RCN padre at Esquimalt, said last night.

Mr. Edwards, speaking to the Oak Bay Kiwanis on "The Meaning of Easter," said Easter is not a physical factor such as an empty tomb but "the reality that's known within man through a personal confrontation with a living Christ."

A person doesn't have to wait till after death to experience the reality of this kind of life, he said. "The meaning of Easter is an inward experience . . . not to be gained by intellect but by personal experience."

The cross is a sign of triumph, not a symbol of defeat, he said. "The strange thing about Jesus is, although he is always being crucified, never does he die."

McAllister Retires

Last of the First World War veterans to serve as a Victoria fireman, Capt. Alex McAllister retired yesterday on pension.

Just before noon a ceremony at Yates Street headquarters of the Victoria department marked the end of Capt. McAllister's 36 years of service to the city.

Joining the force on July 5, 1925, the captain rose through the ranks. He became a captain Nov. 1, 1951.

South Africa Warned World May Isolate It

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United States Thursday warned South Africa that the union's continued racial-segregation policies may lead to its segregation from the rest of the world.

The warning came from Ambassador Francis T. P. Plimpton, who told the UN special political committee that South Africa's doctrine of apartheid has "become in all languages a stigma," symbolic of discriminatory racial legislation.

NO FORCE

At the same time, Plimpton took issue with those urging punitive measures to force South Africa to abandon apartheid. This, he said, would hurt victims of racial laws as much as or more than the government.

PROBLEMS OF OWN

Plimpton noted that the U.S. had racial problems of its own and approached the South African question "with a certain humility." He added, however, that the U.S. is dedicated to the principle that all men are created equal and "is moving firmly and patiently toward the implementation of that high principle."

Church Players

Labor Body Under Ban

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—Justice Minister Francois Erasmus, acting under the Suppression of Communism Act, has imposed a three-month ban on the South African Congress of Trade Unions, it was reported yesterday.

CONFERENCE OFF

Formed in 1955, the congress has 53,000 members drawn from 51 unions, representing workers of all races but mostly Africans.

NO MEETINGS

Erasmus said he believed that "achievement of the objects of Communism would be furthered" by any meetings promoting the interests of the congress.

TABLE TENNIS

Meantime, it was announced in Durban that the government has refused passports for the team chosen by the non-white South African Table Tennis Board to play in next month's world championships in Peiping.

C. M. Bassa, president of the board, said in a statement he was told by the secretary of the interior that the department was not prepared to consider the application favorably.

Painting Street Pink

Help for Jobless Vetoed by Union

TORONTO (CP) — The Downtown Businessmen's Association Inc. has enlisted the unemployed to smother part of Yonge St. in pastel pink paint for its Easter Sunday parade—but the painters' union objects.

"We intend to prosecute," David Cairns, business manager of the district council of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America (CLC), said Thursday. He said it was a union job.

VIOLATES ACT

The project, assigned by the association with the help of the National Employment Service to 100 unemployed men, violates the Industrial Standards Act, Mr. Cairns said.

He said Sunday work under the act calls for a rate of $4.82 an hour, and that those employed on the job would be earning $2.25 an hour.

"NONSENSE"

"It's a job anyone could do," she said. "I could do it. It's not even paint, it's a form of chalk."

The unemployed, she said, will each receive $10, which would mean they would earn almost $5 an hour.

Said Mr. Cairns: "We have 400 unemployed in our own ranks who would be only too happy to do the work."

Alaska to Submit Program Of New Links Through B.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan by Alaska to improve her road and rail connections through British Columbia, to the rest of the United States, will be presented to Congress in mid-May.

The plan, proposed by the State's international rail and highway commission, would cost $350,000,000 and depend largely on railway development in Canada.

These were the major proposals:

● The existing Alaska Railroad would be extended by the United States government from south of Fairbanks, about 380 miles to the Alaska-Canada border, at an estimated cost of $114,000,000;

● The existing Alaska Highway would be extended to run 348 miles between the two British Columbia communities of Hazelton and Atlin.

Atlin is near the borders of the Yukon and Alaska, 400 miles northwest of Prince Rupert, and Hazelton is on the Northern Trans-Provincial Highway, 150 miles east of Prince Rupert. The highway project would include 266 miles of new road and other improvements and cost about $80,250,000.

The existing Alaska Highway would be hard-surfaced and improved for 790 miles to the Jakes Corner junction with the Hazelton-Atlin highway at a cost of $70,500,000.

BASED ON STUDY

Senator E. L. Bartlett (Democrat—Alaska) said the

* * *

Railway Highway Connections

recommendations are based on a study made for the commission by the Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, Ohio.

Indicating that highway improvements could be financed over 20 years from the estimated additional revenue that would be generated by an integrated road system, Bartlett said the plan is highly dependent on Canadian co-operation.

Its eventual realization would come about only through negotiation with Canada, he said.

NO COMMENT

Officials of the Canadian federal government would not comment on the proposals, and British Columbia government spokesmen were not available.

Carl L. Junge, the commission's executive director, said Wednesday the decision to recommend extension of the Alaska Railroad had been made despite the fact that the commission's study group felt the area was not ready for a new railway.

Junge said the Battelle Institute did not consider an extension of the government-owned Alaska Railroad. It studied the feasibility of a new, independent railroad to serve Alaska.

DEPENDS ON CANADA

Construction of the extension, Junge said, is contingent upon building of a railway in Canada that would run from Summit Lake, north of Prince George, to Whitehorse in the Yukon, and from there to the Alaska extension junction on the Yukon-Alaska border.

The company planning to build the rail link from Summit Lake to the Yukon is backed by the interests of Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren.

Hit-Run Driver Admits 1929 Death No Accident

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (UPI)—When Peter Fry, 45, died after being found badly injured outside a speakeasy here on Jan. 12, 1929, police questioned the owners of automobiles in the neighborhood.

Among them was Charles Kucsan, a steelworker and owner of a 1928 Star roadster. Kucsan was released after questioning and police listed Fry as a hit-run victim.

Today, District Attorney George J. Joseph said Kucsan, now 53, had signed a confession that he deliberately ran down Fry 32 years ago because he thought Fry had cheated him at cards.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

EXTRA QUALITY

Body by Fisher

A heritage of quality exclusively yours in General Motors cars. This extra quality is assured by the famous Fisher coach emblem on the lower door sill . . . signature of a job well done — a body built as only Fisher can build it.

EXTRA SMOOTH RIDE

Smooth? Extra Smooth. In fact, here is the one great ride in its field! We call it "jet-smooth" — for what better way to describe the floating-on-air quality of this ride — the like of which just hasn't been known before in the world of motoring. Yes, there's extra smoothness here — try it — treat yourself to a Chevrolet ride.

EXTRA DOLLAR STRETCHING ECONOMY

Drive a Chevrolet for one year — and you'll know what we mean by extra economy. Sure, your initial price is low — but that's just the start! As you drive, you realize that Chevy tempers power with economy — that its stylish ways are practical, too — and, most important, that Chevrolet stays in demand year after year — including the year that you'll trade it!

EXTRA SPARKLING PERFORMANCE

There's extra go — extra gumption — and you know it the moment you touch your toe to the accelerator. Make your choice for performance and economy from a wide range of power teams.

EXTRA SAFETY

Extras where they count! Safety-Master Brakes — Safety Plate Glass in every window — Clean-sweep Windshield Wipers — Precision-Balanced Wheels — Foot-operated Parking Brake. All for Safety-plus!

EXTRA CUSHIONED QUIET

You're coddled in an insulated hush! Relaxed in the extra comfort of Chevrolet's virtually vibration-free quietness. Metal to metal contact has almost been eliminated and sound waves are smothered in an insulating blanket.

EXTRA CONVENIENCE

In a car you want to enjoy yourself — and Chevrolet makes it easy! Front armrests, crank-operated ventipanes, one key locking and a low-loading trunk! Those are just a few of Chevrolet's convenience extras. Let your dealer tell you more about the delightful surprises in store.

EXTRA ROOM

You just have to sit in this amazing car to realize all the extra room. Outside, Chevrolet is neater, trimmer. Inside, everything has been done to give you extra roominess. Lowered transmission tunnel. Chair-high seats. Extra headroom. And, greater in-and-out room.

Welfare... In Like Lion Out as Lamb

By PETER BRUTON
(Third in a Series)

Controversy over charges of a breakdown in B.C. social welfare services during the recent session of the legislature literally roared in like a lion and went out as a lamb.

Main reason for the falloff was undoubtedly the fact that the estimates of Welfare Minister Wesley D. Black — the only time when a detailed discussion could arise—were not called until the early morning hours of the fourth consecutive day of punishing all-night sittings.

By that time much of the steam had been taken out of the opposition.

The welfare controversy flared into prominence shortly before Christmas when Miss Ruby McKay, B.C. superintendent of child welfare for the past 16 years, quit her post in protest over what she termed "restrictive" policies of the government.

When Miss McKay's name did pop up during the estimates Mr. Black merely said: "I have no remarks to make."

What was the situation regarding welfare services?

Miss McKay said bluntly that more money and more staff were needed to do a proper job. She asked all B.C. residents to protest a situation she said was "critical" and hundreds of social workers and agencies backed her up.

Massive Workload

Miss McKay said the workload was overwhelming, that more facilities were urgently required for retarded children and that adoption procedures should be speeded up.

"It was impossible to cope with the mounting number of families and children who needed help," said Miss McKay.

"I submitted my formal resignation in June, 1960, giving the customary six months' notice to enable the government to plan for the necessary replacements. I have reached my decision to leave for one reason—and one reason only. It was no longer possible in the face of the government's restrictive policies to fulfill the responsibilities of superintendent of child welfare, as I saw them, toward some 5,000 children yearly whose own parents cannot care for them."

A staff twice the size would not be enough, said Miss McKay.

"My many written reports of these critical situations and my recommendations have failed to bring about the necessary changes in policy and I therefore reached the decision to resign," she said.

The annual report of the social welfare branch, tabled on the opening day of the session, showed what the situation was at March 31, 1960.

Figures Disclosed

But these figures came to light:

In 1952 there were 221 social workers on staff. In 1960 there were 215. (The government stated that some had been transferred to other departments.)

In 1952 the total welfare caseload was 56,333. Last year it was 72,141.

In 1952, 155 social workers had university training while 66 did not. In 1960 78 had university training and 137 did not.

In 1952 the average caseload per worker (including supervisors and departmental officials) was 254. In 1960 it was 335.

"The shame of it is that the government has not even seen fit to talk about the problem," said the main opposition welfare critic David Barrett (CCF —Dewdney). Mr. Barrett has his master's degree in social work and was fired from his position at Haney Correctional Institution after he was nominated by the CCF. "It's not Social Credit's exclusive problem. It exists across North America. But the shame of it is the government is not doing anything about it."

Welfare Minister Black had stated all along that he could not comment until he had spoken in the budget debate.

Meanwhile the questions began pouring in.

Of the 93 questions to ministers on opening day 36 dealt with social welfare problems. The majority were filed by Mr. Barrett.

Reorganization Asked

Opposition leader Strachan called for complete reorganization of the welfare services including the appointment of a new government department of social welfare and rehabilitation with its own minister.

Instead he turned on CCF leader Strachan and accused him of interfering with the department's business in issuing a bulletin showing what benefits were available to those on social welfare.

The bulletin, widely distributed by the CCF, led to appeals against departmental decisions with the result that the department was forced to pay out more money to those on assistance.

"Anyone would think I give kids old razor blades to play with," said an angry Mr. Black.

But he admitted there had been a "slowdown" in some of the government's preventive services because of the rising demands of unemployment on the economy.

B.C.'s welfare program was second to none in Canada and the government would continue to meet the needs of those who seek it — always bearing in mind that it was the taxpayer who must meet the cost of all government services.

Exhausting Session

But the big debate on welfare services was expected to come during the vote on Mr. Black's departmental estimates. The long series of exhausting night sessions took their toll on members well before the estimates came up and the vote passed in a relatively short 3½ hours.

From 12 midnight to 3.30 a.m.

The major statement by Mr. Black was a point-blank refusal to have any type of inquiry into welfare services.

When the discussion got around to the child welfare department—the former department headed by Miss McKay—the vote passed without comment.

There should be a separate welfare department with a separate minister, he said. There should be better salaries, skilled workers should be moved over to more preventive work and less-skilled workers could be shifted over to handling easier caseloads, there should be a reappraisal of social assistance payments to make them less a sop to the lazy, and there was a need for regional care for emotionally disturbed children.

Mr. Barrett also called for full medical care for all social assistance and pension cases, more and better research, and licensing of social workers to create a standard such as that of the teaching profession.

Commented Mr. Black in reply: "I'm not too convinced there isn't more than a sprinkling of politics in this whole plan."

Flood-Scared City Breathes Easier As News Improves

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—Cedar Rapids residents, bracing themselves for a Cedar River flood tide which had left an estimated $60,000,000 in property damage at Waterloo, breathed a little easier Thursday on learning that the flood crest due here won't be as high as previously forecast.

The U.S. Geological Survey, in a new forecast, predicted that a crest of 20 feet or less —a foot under its previous estimate—would hit this city.

SIX INCHES AN HOUR

The swollen river's rate of rise had diminished to two-tenths of a foot an hour Thursday afternoon after climbing six inches an hour earlier. The river was above the 15-foot mark, two feet over flood stage.

Veteran observers noted that the city's levee system, constructed since a record flood of 20.01 feet in 1929, had withstood 19-foot crests in past years.

EMERGENCY

However, city council declared a state of emergency Thursday afternoon. It closed the six bridges which link the east and west sides of this industrial city divided by the Cedar, and ordered all off-duty policemen and firemen back to work.

W. W. Stolba, streets commissioner, said weak spots have developed in the dikes which never showed up before. Flood water was seeping into low areas.

He said some 1,300 houses in low-lying areas were in danger of being flooded. All residents of these areas, estimated at 4,000, were urged to move out before nightfall.

Mid-East Boils On Three Fronts

LONDON (AP)—Reports of unrest and struggles for power in the explosive Middle East reached the British government Thursday from three Arab nations —Iraq, Jordan and Yemen.

Authoritative reports told of an armed clash in Iraq that left at least seven dead, a struggle for control of King Hussein's army in Jordan and an attempt to assassinate the old king of Yemen.

THREE STORIES

Police loyal to Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq clashed with striking taximen and sympathizers protesting the rise in gasoline prices in Baghdad Wednesday. At least seven demonstrators were killed and many more wounded.

In Jordan this week a long-simmering army intrigue boiled over in an attempt by five army officers to oust King Hussein's chief of staff, Gen. Hajja Majali.

Majali's rivals, led by tank commander Maj.-Gen. Akkass Zaban, were summarily dismissed by Hussein's decree.

Also forced to quit was the defence minister, Akef Fayez.

PIERCED ARM

One bullet pierced the king's arm and another grazed his chest. Others in his party fell wounded. The king was inspecting a hospital at the time and a newly-arrived U.S. doctor at once attended him. The assassin turned his gun on himself and fell dead.

Travellers coming out of Yemen Thursday reported the Imam had died.

U.S. Pledges Cash To Rescue UN From Bankruptcy

Britain Pays Share

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States pledged Thursday to save the United Nations from financial collapse by making an extra contribution to the costs of the UN Congo force.

Britain, meanwhile, paid its entire $3,800,000 assessment for 1960 and warned defaulters that unless they meet their obligations the world organization may "very soon be finished in every sense."

MAIN BURDEN

The U.S. and Britain both criticized a suggestion by 19 Latin-American countries that they make only "symbolic" payments for The Congo and leave the main burden to the great powers and those countries more directly concerned, presumably the African countries.

These developments came in the 15th assembly's 99-member budgetary committee where Russia the nine-nation Soviet bloc has refused to pay anything — charged angrily that the U.S. is a selfish country trying to dictate terms for payment of UN obligations.

CONGO COSTS

The Canadian Parliament has already approved an appropriation of nearly $3,500,000 for various Congo costs.

Many countries have defaulted on last year's Congo force costs of less than $50,000,000 and the committee now is studying the 1961 budget, estimated at $120,000,000, considerably more than the UN's regular budget. The U.S. kicked in nearly half of last year's costs.

Reaction To IWA Negative

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Reaction was negative Thursday to a pledge by the International Woodworkers of America, CLC, to stage a comeback in Newfoundland.

H. Landon Ladd, chief of the IWA's eastern Canadian division, said in Vancouver his union will return to Newfoundland after three years "without a chip on the shoulder" for an out-and-out fight with the Newfoundland Brotherhood of Woods-Workers, IND, for recognition.

NEW LAWS

He was commenting particularly on the provincial government's decision last week to register an IWA local at Deer Lake under new labor laws approved by the Newfoundland legislature last July.

The NBWW, headed by Stirling Thomas, replaced two IWA locals, decertified by emergency legislation passed at the height of the 1959 woods strike.

NOT REPORTED

What Mr. Ladd was not reported as saying, and what Newfoundland Labor Minister Charles Ballam re-asserted Thursday, was that the Deer Lake local must be certified by the labor relations board before it can go into business in the province.

BIG DIFFERENCE

"There's a big difference between being registered and being certified," said Mr. Ballam. "I want to make that quite clear." Only a certified union can act as bargaining agents for a group of workers. Unions under the new legislation can appeal to the courts if refused certification.

Monarchy Buzzes In Spain

MADRID (Reuters) — Government and intellectual circles last night buzzed with speculation over a future Spanish monarchy.

The furor was caused by the circulation of a manifesto by monarchist groups outlining a plan for the transfer of power from head-of-state Francisco Franco to the pretender to the throne, Don Juan.

The manifesto was unsigned — apparently indicating the monarchists desire not to complicate the cordial relations reported to exist at present between Franco and the 47-year-old pretender.

Storm-Bound Islands Facing Food Shortage

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (CP)—While storm-staggered Prince Edward Island struggled back to normal Thursday, the exposed Magdalen Islands 100 miles to the north faced a food shortage.

Both P.E.I. and the Magdalens bore the brunt of a savage storm earlier this week. Many parts of Prince Edward Island, declared in a state of emergency Wednesday, still were buried under drifts as high as telephone poles.

12,000 RESIDENTS

But 12,000 inhabitants of the Magdalens, reachable at this time of year only by plane, were reported facing a food crisis within 24 hours unless the islands' single aircraft runway can be cleared.

A snowplow attempting to reach the runway had broken down and needed new parts. A helicopter tried to reach the island today with the parts but was unable to land because of low visibility.

Meanwhile Prince Edward Islanders were beginning to move about — mostly by horse and sleigh. More than 120 plows, working 24 hours a day since Tuesday, have cleared some main roads but are making little headway against mountainous drifts on others. Secondary roads are expected to be plugged for two weeks.

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — The navy was asked late Thursday to use helicopters to airlift passengers stranded for a week aboard the ferry William Carson, stuck in ice off Cape Breton Island.

'Transfusion' Sparks Army Step

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—New and rich blood—in the form of modern equipment—is being injected into the Canadian army.

There's no doubt the army's step is springier as the government moves to meet the primary battlefield requirements: more mobility, more firepower.

Another step toward increased mobility was announced yesterday by the Defence Production Department—acquisition of 19 light observation helicopters for armored corps reconnaissance.

Last month Defence Minister Harkness announced that the army will get a new overland, overwater armored personnel carrier.

In the latter half of this year the army will take delivery of the Honest John artillery rocket. At the same time heavier guns are being installed in the army's tanks, which are also being supplied with a new navigation aid.

Meanwhile, the RCAF is putting into service new heavy transport planes which will enable it to move an army brigade to any spot in the world in a few days.

The Defence Production department announced that contracts have been placed for 26 helicopters in all. The army will let 19 light observation machines and the RCAF five for training. The RCAF will also get two heavy helicopters for search and rescue and general utility. Total cost $3,000,000.

As far as the army is concerned, this order for 19 goes only part way toward meeting its requirements. It would like another 20 for reconnaissance as well as about 40 heavy helicopters for battlefield transportation and supply. Cost would run to about $40,000,000.

The army also wants new devices now becoming available—infrared detection, radar, surveillance drones, airborne photography, ground-to-air missiles.

Game Club Backs Lagoon

It's Just in Wrong Place

Sewer System Site Protested

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoors Editor

Cowichan Fish and Game Club has protested the proposed site of Duncan's new sewer system, but has agreed in principle to the proposed lagoon-type treatment.

Problem is that no alternative site can be found. It is planned for 27 acres of Indian Reserve land below the existing treatment plant and between Somenos Creek and Cowichan River.

Fish and game officials fear that if lagoon walls were to give out under flood conditions, the plant would overflow or break through to pollute the Cowichan River.

"We feel the location is wrong," said fish and game club president Louis Langois. He expressed fear that muskrats and other burrowing animals might burrow into the walls and weaken them to the extent that at the first pressure, they would give.

"That is what happens to the dykes at Cowichan Bay," Mr. Langois said.

He called for control of the Cowichan River, which under flood conditions goes on the rampage tearing out new courses for itself.

"We feel that installation of this type of sewer system without control of the river is a real danger," he said.

He said that in 1948-49 Duncan people accepted assurances the existing system would be adequate, but it has not been adequate.

The Duncan club has written letters expressing its concern to the provincial recreation department, federal Indian affairs department, federal fisheries, Duncan city council, department of health and Victoria Fish and Game Club.

The Victoria Fish and Game Club's fishing chapter has met with members of the Duncan club and in a report this week Victoria members were told by delegate Bud Dunnett that the earlier Duncan sewer system was never inspected or approved by officials.

He said engineering plans under consideration do not appear to have taken into account possible damage by muskrats.

Some sort of reinforced wire fencing around the lagoons has been suggested to keep out burrowing animals.

"There must be a system of proper controls and inspections," Mr. Dunnett said.

Alberni Dragnet Out For Manhole Thief

PORT ALBERNI — There has been a price put on the head of this city's manhole-cover thief.

City council has announced a reword for $50 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the guilty party or parties which during recent weeks have removed sewer covers at night.

Fear was expressed of serious injury which might result if anyone should step into the open traps.

He questioned the mentality of persons who would commit such an act of vandalism.

Three Flee Troller Fire

CAMPBELL RIVER — Three persons fled a troller at fishermen's floats yesterday in a blaze that destroyed the cabin and the owner's clothing and money.

Aboard were owner Henry Charles and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Malley of Quadra Island. They had been fishing the day before and had just sold the catch to a buyer.

The Red Cross has pledged aid and the owner plans to repair the cabin to make the boat, The Souvenir, seaworthy again.

House Division Splits Council

Rezoning Bid Thins Aldermanic Ranks

DUNCAN—A reduced city council split this week over an application to rezone a lot in a single family dwelling area to multiple family dwelling.

Gordon D. Day, Berkeley Street, made the application in order to convert a house into several suites.

With Mayor Jack Dobson excused because of his connection with the real estate business and Ald. Hamish Mutter absent, Ald. J. H. Saunders took the chair.

Ald. Saunders opposed the application because it would contravene the bylaw restricting the area to single family dwellings "and set a precedent." He added that "four-plexes" and "five-plexes" were undesirable types of accommodation to have in a community.

Ald. R. K. Cairns agreed and signed a motion to turn the application down.

Ald. Steve Saunders refused to second the motion. "It's not a question of breaking the bylaw," he said, "it's a matter of rezoning for one person."

The matter was finally tabled and will be referred to a full council meeting.

Youth Sentenced In Delinquency Case

DUNCAN—A Duncan youth was given a two-year suspended sentence in police court Thursday after pleading guilty to a two-count charge of contributing to the juvenile delinquency of a 16-year-old girl.

Warren Ross Lowey, 19, was also ordered to stay away from the girl involved until she is 18 years of age, and to enter into a $500 bond.

Lowey pleaded guilty to assisting the girl in remaining away from home without her parents consent and to having carnal knowledge of the girl.

Offence occurred last week. Court was told the couple journeyed first to the U.S., returned to Vancouver and were picked up in Princeton.

RECOMMENDED SENTENCE

The youth's lawyer, J. E. Gatehouse of Victoria, told the court that it was Lowye's first offence in adult court and that he was not a criminal in any sense of the word. He pointed out that the girl involved had gone with him voluntarily. There were also people willing to look after the youth and keep him under supervision.

OFF ON WRONG FOOT

"You are only young and you are starting off on the wrong foot," Magistrate A. C. Sutton told Lowey as he passed sentence. The magistrate warned the youth to report to the probation officer regularly and not to violate any terms of the sentence "or you will be brought back before this court."

Lowey was also fined $10 for failing to stop at a stop sign on Station Street March 18.

Departure Bay Sewer Plan Set

NANAIMO — A $385,000 sewer project slated to serve 200 dwellings will be put before Departure Bay residents.

The Greater Nanaimo Sewer and Drainage District may construct an $83,550 portion of the scheme being repaid by residents over a 25-year period.

It is proposed that phase two, involving $301,450, could be financed through debentures issued by the district.

A public meeting to discuss the project has been called for April 24.

It will also be decided at this meeting whether to put the scheme to a plebiscite.

ALBERNI — A car driven by Wilfred Macdonald, Parksville, was damaged when it went out of control at a curve on Great Central Road Wednesday night.

* * *

NANAIMO—A New Year's Day accident resulted in a $75 fine for Duncan motorist John Richard Walker yesterday in police court.

Besides the fine, Walker had his driver's licence suspended for two months after being convicted of careless driving.

Court was told that the Duncan motorist smashed into the rear of another vehicle, sending it into a ditch. Four persons were taken to hospital.

Police said Walker tried to overtake another car on the Island Highway near Waddington while going between 70 and 80 miles an hour. But oncoming traffic made him swing in behind another car, resulting in a collision.

NANAIMO — John Loudon has been re-elected chairman of the Wellington fire protection district. Also elected for a three-year term was Gordon Blank.

* * *

CHEMAINUS — Earl Hegglund, 22, of Crofton was fined $20 in Chemainus police court Thursday for careless driving. Charges were laid following an accident on Crofton Road March 23 when Hegglund's car rolled into a ditch.

A Victoria naval rating, Earl Frank Davies, HMCS Fraser, was fined $20 for speeding on the Trans-Canada Highway. He was clocked at 80 in a 50 zone.

Thomas Ausseneg, Ladysmith, was fined $15 for speeding on old Chemainus Road. He was checked at 55 in a 40 zone.

* * *

ALBERNI—Albert M. Gates was fined $50 in Alberni court yesterday on a charge of driving while under legal disqualification.

According to information given to Magistrate W. E. McLeod in court, Gates was involved in a collision on Beaver Creek Road and his uninsured car was impounded. Damages were estimated at $200 but no one was hurt.

Wesley Gus, charged while driving while his licence was under suspension, was fined $35, while T. Devries, charged with driving without a licence, was assessed $15.

Karl Sterlenko was fined $25 for speeding and Kenneth W. McMurdo, $20 for speeding in a school zone at Dashwood.

DUNCAN — Two speeders caught in recent radar checks were fined in Duncan police court Thursday.

Three Firms, Contractor Fined

Court Weighs Problem Of Gauging Truck Loads

DUNCAN — Three Duncan firms and a Nanaimo contractor were brought into police court Thursday and fined for hauling overweight loads on the highway.

Third conviction cost Doman's Transport Co., Duncan, a fine of $200. The vehicle was 6,700 pounds over the allowable weight when checked at the government weight scales.

Lawyer David Williams, representing Doman's, said the load in question "represents the difficulties inherent in gauging the weight of loads on vehicles." He said it was one of 16 identical loads that left the sawmill at Youbou and was the only one overweight. Magistrate A. C. Sutton agreed that "you can't always tell by just looking at a load."

Second conviction resulted in a fine of $100 for Butler Bros. Supplies Ltd., Duncan. Load was found to be 6,220 pounds overweight.

Michael Vass, Nanaimo, paid a fine of $50 for operating a vehicle that was 10,650 pounds overweight.

Duncan Weimaraner 'Champion of Record'

She is the 13-month-old Weimaraner bitch Adandre's Amy, owned by Dr. and Mrs. Henry Machemer of Duncan. She finished her American championship campaign last week in the Peninsula Kennel Club show at Bremerton, Wash.

Adandre's Amy has been awarded the title "American champion of record" for her performance in four major shows during which she won seven first prizes, two best of winners, four best bitch and four best of opposite sex awards.

She is also scheduled to start training shortly as a hunting dog in the Vancouver Island Gun and Tracking Dog Club to gain dual championship.

'Pay as You Go' Policy May End, Says Mayor

Major Improvements Must Be Made Soon

By TERRY HAMMOND

Victoria city council's greatest champion of "cash-and-carry" municipal financing told the Colonist yesterday he is getting ready to throw in the sponge.

In a major statement of personal policy, Mayor Percy Scurrah said he has been forced by circumstances to the conclusion that the end of the 10-year "pay as you go" policy for capital improvements is finally in sight.

"We can't stand still," said the mayor.

He pointed out that the city's major source of capital project revenue for the past decade—land sales—has all but dried up.

But the need for capital projects has not diminished and is considered by some city officials to be greater than ever before.

Some major expenditures are essential "if we are going to keep the downtown area in a healthy condition," said Mayor Scurrah.

He would not discount the possibility that he may recommend capital borrowing to city council soon and that a money bylaw might be placed before the electorate before the end of this year.

"This is certainly going to come up when the budget comes before city council," he said.

He said he would only reluctantly abandon the pay-as-you-go policy which was instituted here in 1950 when the city's finances were found by incoming City Manager C. C. Wyatt to in critical condition.

Mr. Wyatt, the architect of the policy, last year indicated his feeling that it has outlived its usefulness when he placed a capital expenditure program before city council.

Taxpayers Well Served

Mayor Scurrah pointed out yesterday that the decade in which the city only once went to the money markets for a capital municipal project has served Victoria taxpayers well.

As a result of its refusal to borrow money the city has reduced its net bonded indebtedness to $7,500,000 from a figure of nearly twice that in 1950.

Today, he pointed out, the city enjoys one of the lowest per-capita debts ($137.69) among Canadian cities and has unexpended borrowing powers totalling some $14,700,000.

If the city goes to borrowing to meet its capital project plan it might be able to do so without new debt retirement being directly reflected in the mill rate, the mayor said.

He hoped that the annual increase in total assessment might provide the additional tax revenue with which to retire new debt and pay debt charges.

Mayor Scurrah's statement on capital borrowing was accompanied by his expressed conviction that the city cannot long delay the $800,000 Blanshard Street extension project and the $200,000 revamping of the Johnson, Wharf and Store Street intersection.

"These and other projects to my mind are essential and I don't see how they can be financed from revenue," he said.

Failure to go ahead with the Blanshard project will create a severe traffic bottleneck when the province completes its widening of the Patricia Bay Highway to the city boundary, said the mayor, and reconstruction of the downtown intersection is essential to creating a one-way street traffic pattern.

"One-way streets are coming," the mayor emphasized, whether we like it not not."

He said Douglas Street is currently carrying some 24,000 cars a day and that certain peak periods make it imperative that an additional north-south artery be provided.

Winter Work Plan Urged

The time to start planning for the next winter work program is now, the city was advised yesterday in a letter from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber said it is practically certain that senior governments will again participate in such a program next winter and that planning should not be left in abeyance until an actual announcement is made.

Building Record Totters

With March building permits reaching $1,179,768, construction totals for 1961 exceeded those of last year for the first time.

SAME PERIOD

Permits amounting to $2,254,645 were issued at city hall during the first quarter this year compared with $2,212,878 for the same period one year ago. Building permits for all of 1960 were the highest on record.

Value of permits taken out this year "indicates a trend that may see 1961 building totals paralleling the record established in 1960," city architect Roderick Clack said yesterday.

LARGEST PERMIT

BCE Bus Sale Negotiation Off

A short statement by a BCE official said merely that negotiations had been discontinued "by mutual consent."

HEADED GROUP

Ivor W. Neill, general manager of the BCE transportation division from 1948 until his retirement in 1954, headed a group of businessmen who wanted to buy the regular bus services in Victoria and on the mainland, and also Pacific Stage Lines and charter and sightseeing services.

For the past two months a complete study and appraisal of the bus services has been carried out by a firm of United States transportation engineers.

MANY POINTS

"Negotiations between Mr. Neill and his associates have been thorough and have found many points of agreement," the BCE spokesman said.

"However, by mutual consent, negotiations have been discontinued."

The announcement was welcomed by David Dickinson, 2926 Qu'Appelle, president of the Victoria local of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, which had called for "nationalization" of the service instead of sale to Mr. Neill and his associates.

TAKE OVER

In a statement issued Feb. 16, the union proposed that the provincial government and municipalities concerned should take over the service, rather than permit private sale.

"We are very happy this has happened," Mr. Dickinson said last night. "We are happy working for this company, anyway.

"Personally, I would rather have the B.C. Electric holding the transportation system because it can give better service by subsidizing through the sales of power."

Criminal Negligence

Death-Car Driver Jailed Six Months

A six-month jail term, and a two-year prohibition from driving anywhere in Canada, were handed down in Assize Court yesterday to a Sooke man charged with criminally negligent driving.

Also killed, when a car driven by Stewart crashed into a wrecker at Dewdney Flats last Oct. 21, was Cameron's brother Tom, also of Sooke Road.

Sentence was handed down at 4 p.m. yesterday by Mr. Justice David Verchere.

Architect John H. Wade indicates how he'll incorporate coat-of-arms plaque from old Matson home in Salvation Army home for elderly people. With him are Mrs. Alan J. Campbell, who will head residential canvass for the building fund; W. R. McIntyre, chairman of home's advisory board, and Brig. C. J. Milley.

Anyone Has Green Thumb If He Has 'Long Green'

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

SUCCESS STORY: Friend of ours decided to haul all the plants out of his window boxes and "rest" the soil for a year before replanting.

Not to be outdone by his neighbors he sneaked down and bought a bunch of plastic tulips and other flowers and one night planted them in the box.

* * *

WRITE NOW, SAVE LATER: Informants say that the letter we ran the other day from that 18-year-old African boy Muba Shomibare may be a genuine request for friendly trading but . . .

The odds are against it.

"This charmingly naive offer to exchange African articles of a great variety from 'my little gift shop' for American products has been exposed on several occasions as a clever little racket," said Agent XLL, a man who should know.

"North American products command high prices in the native bazaars," he added. "On the other hand the type of native articles offered in exchange are virtually useless."

Our suggestion: Write to young Muba and say that you will send wash 'n wear slacks on receipt of his "gifts."

That way it won't be you who is taken.

SOUND DECISION: One argument for local amalgamation was voiced the other night by a long-time resident of the Haultain-Richmond area following a traffic accident there.

Every time an accident takes place at the corner, she said, police from both Saanich and Victoria rush to the scene—it's close to the boundary.

"There's so much noise I wish they would amalgamate," she said a trifle plaintively.

* * *

Seems that a birdwatcher has spotted the first hummingbird of the season out Deep Cove Way.

She did a double take — with binoculars.

Mrs. Stacey promptly sketched old Caddy.

While watching closely she saw a head rise from the water and a seagull alighted on the monster's neck. She looked at the tail for a moment and then back to the head and lo . . . the seagull was gone.

Mrs. Stacey assumed that Caddy had eaten it.

Plaque Bridges Past and Future

A picturesque link between past and future was presented yesterday to representatives of the Salvation Army.

When the new Army home for elderly people is raised on a promontory off Dunsmuir Road, overlooking the entrance to the Inner Harbor, a stout, three-panelled wooden plaque will occupy a place of honor in the structure.

The same plaque was built into the home first raised on the site. It is the coat-of-arms of the builder's family, the Crofts, flanked by his initials on one side and the date on the other.

From the Henry Croft family the house became the home of J. S. H. Matson, former owner of The Daily Colonist, and his family. On Mrs. Matson's death a few years ago, the property was bequeathed to the Salvation Army.

The house was found not structurally sound for an Army home for elderly people, but on its site such a home will rise within the year.

Sod-turning ceremonies are set for April 29, and a campaign for building funds will be launched at ceremonies in the Salvation Army Citadel on Pandora April 30 at 3 p.m.

Accepting the plaque yesterday were Brigadier Harold Chapman, here from Toronto headquarters to launch the campaign, and Brigadier C. J. Milley.

Last year, while the old home was being demolished, the plaque disappeared.

H. T. Matson, son of the former owner, appealed through the press for its return—and one morning found the plaque leaning against a post outside his home. There was no explanation.
